

Mandamus Rejected In Helen Ford Case

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The Berrien county prosecutor's office will not initiate mandamus proceedings to force Benton Harbor City Commissioner Helen Ford to attend commission meetings, Chief Assistant Prosecutor Robert McDowell said Friday.

In a letter to the other four commissioners, which McDowell also gave to this newspaper, he said: "Mandamus will not (be available) to compel Commissioner Ford to attend your commission meetings." After Mrs. Ford missed her fifth straight meeting Thursday night, the remaining commissioners ordered the city attorney to ask the prosecutor's office to petition circuit court for a writ of mandamus, which would compel her attendance under threat of contempt of court.

Assistant Prosecutor John Bruha explained that a mandamus action, such as sought by the city commission, can only compel an official to perform legally required duties. And attendance at meetings is not legally required, he noted.

McDowell said he based his opinion not to proceed with mandamus on four court decisions, including a 1969 decision by the Michigan Supreme Court. That opinion, in which a village president sought a mandamus order to compel three council members to attend council meetings, said mandamus is not the proper action to force officials to attend meetings. Mandamus is an action seeking a court order commanding a person, corporation, public official, or another court, to perform a specific act alleged to be required as part of his or its official duties.

McDowell said based on the legal opinions and consultation with City Atty. K. Morris Gavin, "our office cannot proceed in mandamus on your (the city commission's) behalf against Commissioner Ford."

The chief assistant also said it is his opinion that "should Commissioner Ford be absent from five regular commission meetings, your charter provides for a method to vacate her position and appoint another person to serve." However, other opinions have indicated the seat cannot be vacated without a quorum, and Mrs. Ford must attend the meeting to have a quorum. The remaining commissioners are Arnold Bolin, Charles Yarbrough, Alfred Williams, and Edmund Eaman. In connection with the procedure to vacate a commission seat, McDowell pointed out that a commissioner must miss five regular meetings, and although Mrs. Ford has missed five meetings only three of them have been regular meetings.

The state attorney general's office has also issued an opinion that the commission can take no legal action without a quorum of five commissioners.

Mrs. Ford has not attended commission meetings since the May 18 recall of Clean Slate allies Mayor Charles Joseph and Commissioners Charles Shepherd, Barbara Huckaby, and Winston Minott. Mrs. Ford has claimed her work has prevented her from attending the meetings, including a trip to Lansing Thursday as part of her responsibilities as executive director for Berrien County Action, Inc.; a trip to Chicago for a BCA-related meeting; to St. Paul, Minn., for a housing conference; and to Bethesda, Md., to obtain a family planning grant for BCA.

Six Do Cleanup; Police Still Hunt Glass-Smashers

St. Joseph police said today they still are hunting for vandals who broke 28 windows at St. Joseph high school. Det. Lt. Tom Cooper said six youths booked yesterday in connection with eggs thrown in the girls' gymnasium and syrup poured in a physics room were not involved in breaking the windows.

Vandalism at the high school was discovered early yesterday morning. The window breakage was by far the most damaging aspect.

According to Cooper, the six youths were booked yesterday for investigation of malicious destruction of property in connection with spattering and littering. They were released after questioning pending a decision of the St. Joseph board of education whether to prosecute the youths. Ray Dumke, president of the board of education, said this morning that the board would meet after all the facts were available and then would make a decision.

Dumke said he did not know when the board would meet to take up the decision, but added a special meeting may be held.

Cooper said the six youths released yesterday went to the high school and spent several hours cleaning up the building.

Released yesterday were John R. Nelson, 18, of 3821 Lake Shore drive; Jeffrey K. Johnson, 18, of 3032 Lincoln avenue; James A. Burkett, 18, of 848 Miller lane; Kevin C. Gast, 17, of 2718 Lakeview avenue; Roland G. Piontek, 17, of 2857 Bluffwood avenue; and Keith E. Totzke, 19, of 836 Wadena drive.

Sodus Youths Survive 3-Way Split

Three young Sodus township men escaped death when this auto veered out of control and split into three parts upon crashing into tree beside River road, near River school, Sodus township, at 1:34 a.m. today. Front fenders and grill (left) are near toppled tree branch, while body is upside down (right). Car's motor (not shown) was also torn out. Sodus township police said driver, Richard W. Faher, 18, of 4672 Hipps Hollow road, and passenger, Bret D. King, 18, of 3506 Hartman road, were admitted to Benton Harbor Mercy hospital. Passenger Frederick W. Leitz Jr., 18, of 5109 River road, was treated and released from Mercy. Police said minute after crash, second car (not pictured) hit toppled branch and slammed into another tree in River school yard. Injured, but not hospitalized were driver David M. Leitz, 17, James K. Leitz, 14, both brothers of Frederick Leitz and of 5109 River road, and Michael C. Silva, 18, Box 57, Pipestone road, Route 1, Eau Claire. Police said no summonses were issued, but accidents remain under investigation. (Staff photos)

Hoosier Guilty In Slaying Of South Haven Woman

By ALAN AREND
Staff Writer

PAW PAW — A Van Buren county circuit court jury late yesterday afternoon returned a verdict of guilty of first degree murder against Ronnie L. Wilson, 27, a Gary, Ind., man charged in the Dec. 1, armed robbery-slaying of a South Haven woman.

The 12-member, all-white jury deliberated an hour and 13 minutes before returning its verdict that capped a six-day trial. Wilson is Black.

Mrs. Arretta Lou Ingrham was fatally wounded by a holdup man at her corner grocery store in South Haven.

She was the wife of South Haven City Councilman Wilbur J. Ingrham.

Wilson, and another man, Edwin Lamar Langston, 23, South Haven, were arrested several hours later. Langston is also charged with first degree murder and is to go on trial July 20. He is the alleged driver of a car used in the holdup.

Conviction of first degree murder carries a mandatory life prison term.

Sentencing of Wilson was delayed pending a pre-sentence investigation.

In the final day of testimony yesterday, Wilbur J. Ingrham testified in sometimes halting and quivering voice, that he saw his wife shot and was at her side when she died.

Ingrham said he had returned to the store after making a delivery and passed a "colored" man in an aisle as he headed to the back of the store to see his wife. Ingrham testified he told his wife he was going to change his clothes and proceed back down the aisle past the black man.

"The man grabbed me around the neck," Ingrham testified, "and put a gun to my head saying, 'this is a robbery, open the cash drawer.'"

Ingrham said Gordon Hoag, a customer in the store at the time came up to the man and told him to put the gun away. Ingrham said Hoag then hit the gun (a 9 m.m. Luger) with a full bottle of wine.

Ingrham said the wine bottle broke spilling the wine "all over the floor" and "Hoag slipped while struggling with the man" and "was hit a couple of times in the head."

Ingrham said the man had ordered him to sit down in front of the cash register counter. He said his wife was attempting to call police on a telephone behind the counter and the man heard the phone "ring back" (sound some phones make when the dial is returning).

The man then cocked the gun, according to Ingrham's testimony "turned and shot my wife," he said in a choked voice.

Ingrham said he couldn't remember if he or the man opened the cash register drawer, but the man took money from the drawer and Ingrham's wallet before leaving out the front door of the store.

Ingrham said he immediately went to his wife's side.

"All I could see was blood coming from my wife's mouth. Her last words were 'I Love you, I'll never forget you.'"

Ingrham related in words interrupted by his crying.

Ingrham testified the man who did the shooting was colored, but did not identify Wilson in court yesterday as the assailant.

Defense Atty. John Szymanski only called one witness on behalf of his client (Wilson), that being Ward (Steve) Hamlin Jr., an assistant prosecutor, who testified he was at two lineups held at the Berrien county jail, when Ingrham identified one man from each lineup as the slayer of his wife. Neither man identified by Ingrham in either lineup was Wilson. Hamlin testified.

Frank Willis, Van Buren county prosecutor handled the prosecution of the case before Judge Meyer Warshawsky.

Mexico Hunts Killers

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Virtually all Mexico City policemen were taking part in the search today for Communist guerrillas who killed six officers in a raid on a small suburban police station.

Police said about six persons arrived at the station at about 8 a.m. Friday in four cars without license plates and occupants of two cars jumped out firing machine guns and .45 caliber revolvers.

They hit a number of officers standing in line for morning roll call killing four officers immediately, including the commanding officer. Two more died in hospitals.

"They didn't have a chance," a state judicial police spokesman said.

Four policemen were wounded, two of whom were listed in grave condition, to hospital sources said.

North Viets Hint Yanks May Still Be Captives

PARIS (AP) — A North Vietnamese official hinted Friday to war veterans from Michigan that there may be Americans still held captive in his country.

The Michigan men seeking information about U.S. military personnel listed as missing in action said, however, the official would not go into specifics.

Larry Zatkoff, counsel for a veterans group from Michigan, said Do-Thanh, first secretary of the Vietnamese Embassy in Paris, told the men at one point during an hour-and-45-minute meeting:

"We too share concern for American widows and non-widows."

When pressed, Zatkoff said, the official would say only that he was referring to MIAs and prisoners of war.

Zatkoff said he relayed the statement to Angus McDonald, staff director of the U.S. House Select Committee on Missing Persons in Southeast Asia.

Group members said they felt encouraged by their discussions and reported Hanoi officials asked them to keep in touch.

"They were just super-courteous, super-hospitable people," said Zatkoff. "They served us hot tea three or four times, lit our cigarettes, and were smiling and cordial throughout. They not only received us, but received us the same day."

The group did not get information they sought on a Michigan man missing in action, Zatkoff said, but, "We're encouraged from the standpoint we've at least made a first step. They showed a courteous attitude toward us and relayed a message to the U.S. government through us."

The Michigan man is Air Force Capt. Robert Tucci, shot down over Laos on Nov. 11, 1968. He is formerly from Macomb County, but his father and wife now live in Texas.

Zatkoff said the North Vietnamese message was: "We know all about Tucci and all the other MIAs, but won't do anything until the U.S. government does something for us, makes some kind of gesture."

Zatkoff said he interpreted this to mean war reparations to Hanoi, help in getting North Vietnam into the United Nations and lifting of trade restrictions.

"He (Do-Thanh) asked me to make a gesture, to work to get the United States back to the bargaining table," said Nelson Amsdill, commander of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6691 of Fraser, Mich.

The veteran's group had sought to present petitions containing 80,000 signatures, including President Ford's, to the Vietnamese delegation. The Vietnamese refused to accept the petitions, but kept repeating they knew about the missing Americans.

The Michigan men said the Vietnamese told them when the government begins to cooperate, the first information concerning MIAs would be about Tucci.

A request by the Americans for visas to North Vietnam to personally deliver the petitions was also refused.

The Vietnam cease-fire agreement provided for tracing missing Americans and for American help in rebuilding war-torn Vietnam. The cease-fire collapsed.

West Point's Struggle With Human Nature

"A cadet will not lie, cheat or steal, nor tolerate those who do."

This has been the self policing honor code at the U.S. Military Academy since its founding in 1802.

Similar strictures are to be found in the following training institutions with their founding dates in parenthesis: U.S. Naval Academy (1845); U.S. Coast Guard Academy (1876); U.S. Merchant Marine Academy (1943); and U.S. Air Force Academy (1954).

The same procedure holds in backup officer development schools in the nature of a Reserve Officers Training Corps or an Officers Training Corps. The latter group has only been convoked during periods of armed conflict.

The honor codes purpose is simplistic. A leader is expected to set an example for his followers and if he displays feet of clay, this will eventually reduce the entire organization to a nullity.

Over the years the code has worked if the news of its violation is the criterion.

Cheaters have been bounced without fanfare and the graduates from the service academies have served their organizations and their country well.

West Point shattered this tranquil progression from plebe (a freshman) to commissioned officer 25 years ago when an organized cheating scheme came to light. It resulted in 90 cadets resigning. The action wrecked the Army football endeavors for the 1951 season since 37 of that group were on the team.

Two years ago eight cadets filed suit in federal court claiming their expulsion on charges from cheating to bringing in liquor to the campus violated their constitutional rights. A U.S. Court of Appeals dismissed the action in January, 1975, as being without merit.

The 1951 and 1974 exposés are mild compared to the latest eruption.

The entire junior class was held beyond the normal vacation period starting last week so West Point's administrators could plow through who did what on a homework computer problem in engineering.

The figures about cribbing on that quiz and the curriculum at large vary as wildly as rumors on the New York Stock Exchange.

Some accounts claim three-quarters of the 800-man junior class have been helping one another or soliciting assistance. On the homework quiz, 117 were accused of cheating; and of that number, four have resigned, 65 have been cleared by the cadet honor committee and the other 48 are appealing expulsion rulings by the committee to the Academy's superintendent, Lt. Gen. Sidney B. Berry.

General Berry told one reporter the situation leaves him heartsick. More rationally, he has to wonder what can be done to restore calm to the West Point campus.

One lawyer has filed a class action suit challenging the cadet committee's decision. The code, he contends, is not enforced impartially but is applied in a subjective manner, and it requires one student to spy upon his colleagues.

His client is the first victim of the cadet committee's action.

The honor code is all to the good, but it can clash with a fair start on the cadet's military future.

Those graduating academically at the head of their class start off with a leg up as commissioned officers.

Ulysses Simpson Grant almost flunked out of West Point but became the Union Army's Civil War commander in chief. Woodrow Wilson plucked John J. (Blackjack) Pershing out of obscurity in the seniority list to lead the AEF in World War I. Dwight Eisenhower was a capable student at West Point but not of Phi Beta Kappa rating. FDR raised him to supreme ranking to head the Allied forces in Europe during World War II.

These are exceptions. For the most part the upper level cadet is the one to sport a general's stars or an admiral's stripes in later life.

West Point's widely publicized difficulties shows this fact of life is not lost on its student body.

One solution advanced to maintain the honor code as a viable standard and to reduce the temptation to break it is to introduce discretionary punishment for its violation.

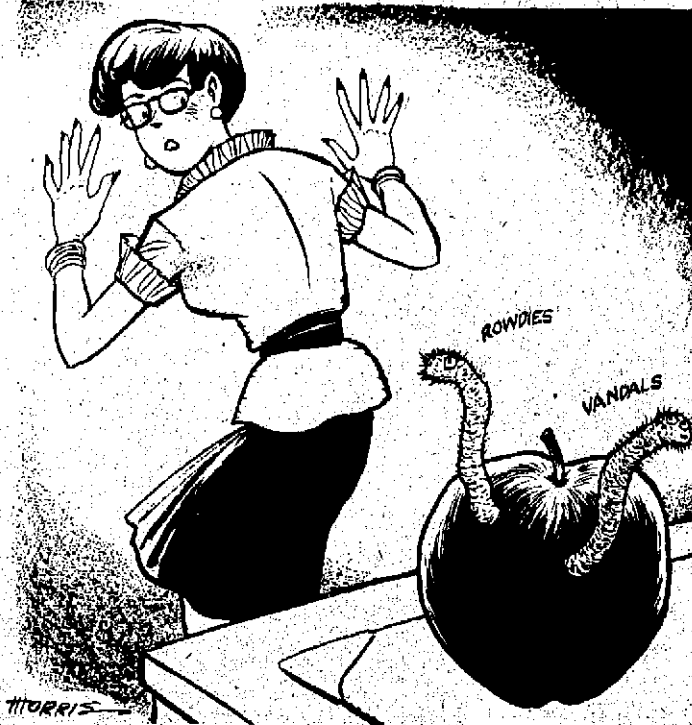

Unlike the criminal law, an accusation is tantamount to a guilty verdict. The accused is required to prove his innocence. The harshness is that procedure needs remedying.

Probation or suspension as alternate penalties to the existing single forfeiture (expulsion) would not be out of line. An isolated first offense is something different than an organized cheating ring.

Peer enforcement of the code is vital to its success, but no set of rules is beyond misapplication.

A more penetrative analysis of committee procedure and decision making by experienced officers would seem to be in line to season the judgment of youth which tends to be inflexible at times.

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT IS 'UNDEMOCRATIC'

Editor,

Ronald Reagan recently complained that an attempt by the California legislature to alter the manner of delegate selection on the eve of the primary election would be "changing the rules in the middle of the game." The Michigan legislature, with the approval of the governor, has changed the election procedure with the avowed intention of making elections manageable by making it even more difficult for new or small parties to get on the ballot.

It mattered not to legislators that the law which they enacted was an ex post facto law nor that it placed small parties in double jeopardy by requiring them to qualify twice for places on the ballot.

Since legislatures subject to economic baronies have prostituted the election process, it is apparent that the form of government which prevails in the United States has become as undemocratic as was the rule of George III against his subjects.

If the legislature wishes to simplify the elective process to accommodate the inadequacies of voting machines, it can also clarify issues by requiring that the think-alike, act-alike parties of capitalist persuasion (Rep'n, Dec'e, AIP, SWP, CP, etc.)

combine to form one party and that the parties which propose a new post-industrial revolution form of government (SLP and the League for Socialist Reconstruction) constitute the second party. Presto! Only two lines would be required on voting machines, and election issues would be clarified: namely, do Americans want to remain subject to an economic tyranny which is reinforced by a political bureaucracy, or do Americans wish to establish a twentieth century economic democracy under an industrial administration of their choosing?

COLOMA MOTHER BACKS MILLAGE

Editor, The Coloma schools will be voting on a very important millage election June 14. The money is needed for the Coloma school district will face many classes being cut off.

As a parent, I feel very strongly about the quality of education of the Coloma school system.

I feel that speech and counseling are extremely important and needed. Maybe your child does not need counseling at the present time, but what about next year or future — a problem should arise and your child needs and deserves counseling (special individual help) that you alone cannot cope with? Will your child turn to someone else that is not qualified or trained for help and get misguided information and feel more confused? Each child has the opportunity to see a counselor when and if a problem should arise during a school day. Are you there to handle that problem at that time? Not! But, the teachers and counselors also on their own time, evening too, call you to inform you of any changes that they feel and want (for your child) to be aware of, because they care! They care for each individual child's needs.

I am a working mother and very grateful for the school buses. Could you re-arrange or re-schedule your time or work to take your child to and from school?

I have a child that is looking forward and very excited about taking band next year. I have not had the courage to tell or explain at this time, that she may not be able to take band next year. People have dreams and anticipations, so do children!

Many people have moved to the Coloma area because of the quality education, making a heavier load on all teachers.

If we move, I hope and pray that the next school will have these opportunities of education for my children!

It is your choice and decision as a concerned parent to decide your child's quality education or — education.

Soviet Strength On Shaky Base

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union is dangerous, precisely because it is a second-rate power in everything but military strength. And may be on the downhill road.

Soviet technological advances, the basis for significant economic-industrial growth except in the field of materials production and routine manufactures, cannot match those of the United States or other major Western countries.

The Russians are slipping further and further behind. Soviet agriculture is a shambles despite impressive inputs of capital and heavy thinking on the problem at the Kremlin level.

Soviet management does not seem to do significantly better, when complete modern high-technology factories are installed ready to operate down to the last push button, even when fitted with highly redundant backup systems to serve in case of breakdowns.

We are not here talking of economic collapse, rather of Soviet ability to compete economically in an increasingly technological world, where efficiency is a crucial factor. This is not either to belittle Soviet theoretical scientists who can match their abilities with the world's finest, or Soviet artists, or writers, or engineers.

It's rather that the economic system is so tied in with Soviet ideology that it apparently cannot be changed without severely straining the power structure on which the men in the Kremlin depend.

This same stumbling applies to Soviet relationships with other nations, particularly those whose actions the Russians would like to influence. Where there is no mammoth Soviet army on the border, the Soviets almost invariably lose their influence, even in fellow Communist nations. Exceptions, such as Cuba, are infrequent, and occur apparently only when the recipient is deeply in need of continued aid and sees no other open door. Or during limited periods when the objectives of the nation being helped and those of the Soviet Union run parallel.

Combine these failings then with the proven Soviet ability, though at great cost in technical manpower and in rubles, to mount a broad development of its armed forces, both nuclear and conventional.

What then happens as the Soviet Union begins to slip further behind the West in industry, as in agriculture? And when its immediate successes, as in India, Angola, Afghanistan, begin to sour — as has been the case with Egypt and a wide assortment of other nations where Soviet influence once seemed firmly in control?

Here then will be the period of danger. Having a strong military force, knowing that no nation would, likely, intervene given the danger of nuclear war, and having confidence in its own highly developed civil evacuation system aimed at reducing nuclear casualties, some Soviet ruler could act either in over-confidence or in the belief that action was necessary before the balance of politico-economic power shifted too far against the USSR.

There are, however, strong rays of hope. Historically, even in the midst of its aggressions, the Soviet leaders have been extremely cautious men, leaving themselves wide avenues for silent retreat even in the midst of military operations. This was true in the undeclared war with Japan in the 1930s when whole divisions were destroyed — but the actions never publicized at home or abroad. This was true in Soviet excursions into Iran in the World War II era. And in the Cuban missile crisis. The Soviet leaders of this and past eras have been prone to copper their bets. And in all-out war there is no possible way to be snugly secure.

Can Ted Answer All Questions?

According to a recent story in the New York Daily News, Sen. Edward Kennedy has made a "dramatic reversal" in his previous position that he had made a "firm, final and unconditional" decision not to seek the presidency or the vice presidency, and would not accept a draft.

According to the story, Kennedy now would accept a "genuine draft" for the presidency, or would consent to take second spot on a Hubert Humphrey ticket.

The article, which has all the marks of a deliberate Kennedy trial balloon, notes that the senator now feels that he can "handle any questions that can be raised about Chappaquiddick."

Well, let us see. I have just reviewed two current books about Chappaquiddick: Robert Sherrill's "The Last Kennedy," and, even more important, Robert L. and Thomas Tedrow's "Death at Chappaquiddick."

Both of these books are careful, rich in detail, and, together, they make a variety of points in which I invite the senator's attention. Drawing on both books, I summarize:

1. For what it is worth, the party-givers at the cottage consumed a lot more alcohol than later claimed, and no one present had any intention of returning to Edgartown that night.

2. Kennedy almost certainly did not leave the party cottage at 11:35 PM with Miss Mary Jo Kopechne as claimed. If he did, an unexplained gap exists between that time and 12:45 AM, when Deputy Sheriff Christopher Look Jr. spotted Kennedy's car on Cemetery Road. At the inquest a prima facie case exists that witnesses told lies under oath and contradicted earlier accounts they had given in order to support Kennedy's story.

3. Kennedy did not turn onto

Dike Road, leading to the bridge, by "mistake."

4. Whether Kennedy was drunk, or, instead, sober but negligent, the Oldsmobile was traveling at a speed of 40-50 mph when it went off the bridge. It traveled 34 feet through the air. "That kind of speed at that time and place indicates criminal homicide in any state regardless of the later conduct of fleeing the scene." (Tedrow and Tedrow)

5. Kennedy, escaped from the car through the open window on the driver's side. As the car hit the water on its right side, this window was up, and the incoming water from the smashed windows beneath could have attempted his escape.

6. Note carefully: the car by no means rested in deep water. At low tide, the water was only 5-6 feet deep. It was low tide from 11 PM to midnight. Kennedy's escape hatch would have been 8-22 inches above water. Even at 12:45 AM, tide rising, little water would have covered the window. It would not have seemed beyond human capacity to extricate Mary Jo.

The idea that this character might be president of the United States is preposterous. If the Democrats are foolish or desperate enough to put him anywhere on the ticket, this will be the roughest campaign in the history of the country.

Oklahoma Passes Bill To Make Criminals Pay

Faced with rising crime and prisons overflowing with a record number of inhabitants, state legislatures are beginning to take the initiative away from federal agencies in the search for answers. The Oklahoma legislature has passed a bill which deserves consideration as one of helping the victim of crime.

As an alternative to a jail sentence, the bill would permit judges to suspend the sentence of persons convicted of crimes on the condition they make restitution to their victims. The plan has several points in its favor.

First, it provides some consideration for the person most often neglected in criminal actions — the victim. Secondly, it places the criminal in a position of responsibility for the financial losses resulting from his acts. Third — if the idea works — it saves the taxpayers prison upkeep.

There could be pitfalls. If the criminal sees the plan as a way of buying his way out of prison, it may not be much of a deterrent. In that case it might be necessary to combine a prison sentence and restitution as a condition of parole.

Penetrator Fate Up To St. Joe, Berrien

By JIM DeLAND
Assistant City Editor

The fate of the controversial I-94 penetrator rests with the St. Joseph city commission and the Berrien county road commission, a state highway department official said this week. "By law, we need the approval of the City of St. Joseph and the county road commission, but not the approval of St. Joseph township," said John Osmer, assistant to state highway Director John P. Woodford.

"If the St. Joseph city commission passed a resolution withdrawing its support, it would cause us some problems. They're a partner in this project — we wouldn't go ahead without them," Osmer said. The state highway department is well aware of non-binding advisory elections two weeks ago in which the proposed penetrator was opposed by 65 per cent of voters in the city and 77 per cent of voters in St. Joseph township.

But, since the elections were only advisory, he said, the highway department will continue to pursue plans for the penetrator on the assumption it has approval of the city until the city commission takes some official action to the contrary. Osmer said the highway department is in the process of sending copies of an environmental impact study to local units involved for their comments and is planning to hold a public hearing on the study sometime later this summer in this area.

Based on the results of the hearing, he said, the highway department staff would assess its position and formulate a recommendation to the state highway commission, which has final authority to approve or reject the project. The proposed penetrator would be a limited access highway from I-94 between Lincoln and Washington avenues in St. Joseph township to a point near the junction of Niles, Washington and Hilltop in St. Joseph.

The St. Joseph city planning commission has repeatedly gone on record in favor of the penetrator, but the position taken by the city commission in past years is in some doubt. Osmer said the state highway department is proceeding on the assumption that it has the city's support and former St. Joseph Mayor Tom Sparks has said city commissioners endorsed the penetrator around 1962 as part of an agreement with the state highway department to widen Niles avenue.

However, St. Joseph City Manager Gerald Hepler has said he can find no record of such endorsement in city commission minutes and the present city commission has yet to take a stand on the issue. St. Joseph township consistently has opposed the penetrator, but Osmer said township approval was not required to proceed with the project.

By law, he said, the highway department needs only a cost participation agreement with the city and road closure agreements with the city and county road commission to proceed with the project once the required environmental impact hearing is held.

Bus Driver For Retarded Has Been On Fond Trip

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

A woman who spends several hours a day driving retarded youngsters to Gard school and back home has a fondness for the 12 "affectionate," "gentle souls" that ride on her bus.

"Nowadays, most of the normal children have their hand out looking for more favors. Retarded children are grateful for the smallest attention," says Dorothy Sparks, the wife of former St. Joseph mayor Tom Sparks.

For 11 years "Sparky," as the children call her, has been getting up at 4:50 a.m. on school days. She looks forward to the day's funny incidents and emergencies while eating breakfast, she says.

She fires up her bus, which is parked in front of her home at 315 Kingsley, St. Joseph, at 6:30 and heads for Grand Beach, where her first passenger lives. From Grand Beach, near the Indiana line, she drives north along Red Arrow highway picking up children. They arrive at the St. Joseph school about 8:50.

With her job, she says, "You can't just get on the bus and take the wheel and step on the gas. You're a nurse; you're a mother. The kids tell you all their problems. If you have a little sympathy and humility, and if you show it, you can't help but become close to them." Mrs. Sparks points to a fly swatter that hangs from the dashboard of her bus and says "I demand discipline." But some days, she admits, are rough.

One time a boy stabbed her in the neck with a knitting needle. The youngster was trying to make Mrs. Sparks look like a then-popular television character who had an antenna on the top of his head, she explained. "He called me his favorite Martian," she said, and all of the children laughed. The small puncture was not serious.

Her passengers range in age from a six-year-old to a 22-year-old girl. She calls them a "precious cargo." She says that parents of retarded children carry a burden. "Some just look forward to putting their children on the bus and their responsibility ends for the day."

An eight-year-old girl, crippled by cerebral palsy, is a daily rider on Mrs. Sparks' bus. The girl has just learned to stand up and is trying to walk. In the evening, as the bus approaches the little girl's house, "Sparky" steadies her as she stands in the aisle at the front of the bus. When the girl sees her parents "She'll stand there, big as anybody, smiling."

Mrs. Sparks has dealt with emergencies. Once a young boy with a heart condition began to black out and at the same time another passenger doubled up in an epileptic seizure. Unable to treat the epileptic girl, Mrs. Sparks removed her jacket, folded it and laid it under the girl's head. The seizure passed. Following instructions given earlier by the parents of the boy with heart trouble, Mrs. Sparks said she "rubbed his wrists and face and talked to him and he came out of it."

Mrs. Sparks, who has driven about 300,000 miles for the St. Joseph school, retires after this school year.

"I hate to think of the last day, next Wednesday," she said. "I have a picture (of herself) to give each of them, and a bag of their favorite candy. And I'm just going to say Goodbye."

LONG HAUL: In past 11 years, Mrs. Tom (Dorothy) Sparks of St. Joseph has driven about 300,000 miles as bus driver for handicapped youngsters at Gard school. She gets up at 4:50 a.m. to begin her rounds. The youngsters are her "precious cargo." (Staff photo)

Good Samaritan Reports $20 Loss

Allice Jones, 24, of 249 1/2 North Stevens avenue, Benton Harbor, told police Friday she was willing to feed a young woman who came to her door and told of having had nothing to eat for two days.

Mrs. Jones told police she in-visited the woman, about 17, inside and went to the kitchen to prepare a meal. While in the kitchen, Mrs. Jones reported, the young woman took $20 from Mrs. Jones' purse and fled on foot. Police were notified at 4:27 p.m.

Family Planning Unit Awarded Additional $60,000

The Berrien county health department has announced that $60,000 in federal funds previously cut from its family planning program have been restored by the Michigan Department of Public Health.

The additional $60,000 for professional services and supplies raises the total family planning budget for 1976 to $175,000, according to Jerome H. Erickson, acting director of the county health department.

Erickson said the increase in funding was a result of more federal money from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare becoming available for local family planning programs.

He said statistics show family planning programs save $3 on the local and state levels for every $1 spent by reducing A.D.C. payments, prenatal care and infant care necessary for an unwanted pregnancy and delivery.

The family planning program is available to all persons living in Berrien county who are not served by private physicians. Services are provided at no charge to the patient and include educational sessions given by Planned Parenthood of Southern Michigan staff before medical appointments.

A comprehensive patient history, physical examination counseling and contraceptive methods are provided to all patients by the health department staff.

People desiring family planning services may call 926-7131 in Benton Harbor or 684-2800 in Niles for an appointment. The health department has two office locations — 769 Pipestone, Benton Harbor, and 520 East Main street, Niles.

THE BIBLE

No. 242. The Peaceable Kingdom

One of Isaiah's prophecies which has influenced men down through the ages to yearn for the ideal of universal peace predicts that such a peace is indeed possible. The graphic picture painted so many years ago by the prophet remains fresh and vivid today.

"The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf, and the young lion, and the falling together; and a little child shall lead them. And the cow and the bear shall feed; their young ones shall lie down together: and the lion shall eat straw like the ox." (Isaiah 11:6-7)

"And the sucking child shall play on the hole of the asp, and the weaned child shall put his hand on the cockatrice' den. They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain: for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea." (Isaiah 11:8-9)

Plan Benton Harbor Crusade

Invite Public

A two-week long crusade planned with the hope of bringing the people of Benton Harbor together will begin Sunday, June 6, according to Dr. Theodore E. Trent, the evangelist who will conduct the crusade.

The services will be held each night at 7:30 p.m. through Saturday, June 19, at the Community Church of God in Christ, 870 East Washington avenue, Benton Harbor, according to Bishop Nathaniel Wells Jr., pastor of the church. The public is invited to all services.

The Rev. Nathaniel Wells Jr., administrator of the crusade, says the church is sponsoring the crusade with the hope of bringing together a cross section of the community. He says religion brings people together and that for Benton Harbor, "Christ is the answer."

Special events are planned each night of the crusade and one of these will be Community Night, Thursday, June 10. White ministers, businessmen and community residents are especially invited, Dr. Trent said.

Theme of the crusade is "Clean Up, Build Up and Grow Up with Christ."

A special crusade choir composed of community members will be under the direction of Dr. Trent's wife, Erma, who is a graduate of the Las Vegas Conservatory of Music.

Throughout the crusade,

EACH NIGHT: Among planners for the "Bicentennial Benton Harbor City-Wide Crusade" to be held June 6-19 at the Community Church of Christ in Benton Harbor are from left, Robert Baker, business manager; the Rev. Nathaniel Wells Jr., chairman; Bishop Nathaniel Wells Sr., pastor of the host church, and Dr. Theodore E. Trent of Los Angeles, who will conduct the crusade. (Staff photo)

reports are planned daily on local radio and television stations.

The "Bicentennial Benton Harbor City-Wide Crusade" has been geared especially to Benton Harbor, Dr. Trent says.

Committees preparing for the crusade have contacted 10,000 homes in the area to determine the needs of the Benton Harbor area, according to Dr. Trent. During the crusade, 70 people will be contacting people in person, by telephone and by mail.

Dr. Trent, who recently returned from conducting a Hawaiian crusade, says he expects each crusade to the community in which it is being held. Bus transportation will be available and those interested may call Milton Burton, chairman, at the church. The Rev. Milton Wells is chairman for the crusade, Joel Patterson is chairman of public relations and Robert Baker is business manager for the crusade.

Dr. Trent is head of the Trent Family Gospel Crusades of America, which is based in Los Angeles, Calif. The family include Dr. Trent and his wife and their four children.

Dr. Trent is a graduate of Zion Bible college, Providence, R.I., and of the Baptist School of Theology, Toledo, Ohio.

He has been conducting crusades throughout the United States and the world for 25 years.

Letters Oppose Abortion

HALLETTVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The Southern Baptist leader of an anti-abortion organization has sent 15,000 letters to clergy and laity, urging the denomination's convention June 15-17 in Norfolk, Va., to adopt a resolution strongly opposing abortion.

"The Rev. Robert Holbrook, coordinator of 'Baptists for Life, Inc.," says in his three-page letter that "certain of the news media and abortion advocates" have pictured past convention actions as favoring abortion, and the convention should take a stand clearly against it.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Kissing Isn't Essential

Dear Ann Landers: Thirteen months ago I had my first child, a beautiful baby boy. My husband, Chris, is a wonderful husband and father but he has never kissed the child.

I mentioned this to him recently and he said he'd feel funny — that he's never kissed a guy before. I've told him how much this bothers me but it doesn't do any good.

My father kissed my brothers and they never lost their masculinity because of it. Some of Chris's male friends have kissed our child on the cheek, when I've pointed out to him. Still no change.

He is a warm, affectionate person and this hang-up has not terribly confused, can there be a deeper problem? — Mama

Dear Mama: A father who considers a 13 month-old son "a guy" has a little struggle in his head. I'd say Chris has a deeper problem all right.

But if he holds the child, plays with him and "is a wonderful father," overlook — this peculiarly. Kissing isn't essential to healthy development.

taking out a 41-year-old lady who is attractive, charming, interesting and well thought of by all the people she works with. Louise has never been married. (I was divorced two years ago for reasons I won't go into here but it wasn't my fault. My wife ran off with another man.)

Louise works the day shift. I work the night shift. This means we see each other only on Sundays.

I've told Louise I love her and she says she feels the same about me. For the last several dates, however, she has brought her seven-year-old niece along. (The youngster lives with her since Louise's sister passed away.)

The child sits between us in the movies and even in the car. Of course I have to take Louise straight home because of the little girl. The kid even stands there while we say goodnight. I can't even give Louise a real kiss.

I'm becoming terribly frustrated and don't know what to make of this. Do you? Please help me figure it out. — Inter-cepted

Dear Inter: Who's to figure? The facts are obvious. You have a seven-year-old chaparral.

Tell Louise you aren't interested in a gloomie threesome — unless, of course, you are content to settle for a platonic friendship, which is exactly what you have.

ANN LANDERS

Unblessed

Dear Ann: I'm not a superstitious nut nor am I especially religious, but in our family when anyone sneezes we always say "God bless you."

I'm seeing a very nice young man and we get along well, but when I sneeze he never says anything even though I always say "God bless you" when HE sneezes.

Last night I told him I felt it was only good manners to reciprocate the "blessing." He said he'd try to remember. An hour later I sneezed and he didn't say a word. Why is he so bullheaded? Any cure for these types? — Unblessed

Dear Un: He's not bullheaded, he just doesn't come from a family of "Gerundihellers." Continue to bless him and maybe in time he'll catch the drift. (P.S. I hope you don't have hay fever.)

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How To Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 50 cents in coin to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Young Chaperone

Dear Ann Landers: For the past six months I have been

Dr. Lester Coleman

When the laser beam was first discovered early in the 1960s it captured the imagination of scientists, physicians and surgeons. It was anticipated that this might revolutionize many fields of surgery.

Today, laser beams are used to remove tumors of the vocal chords and in a bloodless way it removes a variety of other disorders in the nose, the throat and mouth.

Certain tumors of the neck and even some kinds of breast tumors respond to the laser beam. Eye surgeons particularly have been benefitted. Detached retinas have been fused and returned to a normal position in the eye to preserve sight.

Skin specialists use the laser beam to remove some types of skin cancers. They have also tried it with moderate success for the removal of tattoos and other discolorations of the skin.

Laser means "Light Amplification by Stimulated Emissions of Radiation."

The laser beam is now being used to stop severe bleeding in the stomach. Bleeding in the esophagus, too, has been controlled by this means.

Gynecologists are using the laser beam in treating selected diseases of the cervix, the uterus and the vagina.

One of the great advantages of the use of the laser beam is that it is virtually a bloodless procedure. As the beam is used, blood vessels that open are immediately sealed by the same mechanism.

The instrument is now being used to free the wounds of badly burned patients from debris. These wounds can be cleaned more rapidly by this technique. In surgery of the liver, one of the most problems is to control the bleeding of the tiny blood vessels. The laser beam seems to be able to do this, thus increasing the chances of recovery from major liver surgery.

The enthusiasm for the laser beam in all fields of medicine is extending rapidly. Those who were at first antagonistic to its use are more encouraged by the excellent results now being obtained. Dentists, too, are beginning to do experimental studies hoping that the laser beam will be a great addition to their own specialty. Conferences all over the world are being planned so that laser beam specialists can transmit their valuable knowledge to each other and evaluate the efficacy of this important creation of modern science.

West opened one of these week two bids that are fairly common today. A double would have been for takeout, so North passed. South really should have let the two hearts alone, but he hated to be shut out and tried two spades which North raised to four.

A diamond lead would have cooked his goose, but West opened the dealer of clubs and South was in business for a while. He led a trump to his ace and a second trump to East's king.

East cashed his king of diamonds and continued with the nine of clubs. South's jack forced West's king and dummy ruffed, but now South was one trick short of his contract. He couldn't get to his hand to take a heart finesse without using up dummy's last trump and could not avoid the loss of two more diamond tricks.

South could have made the contract after taking his ace of trumps, if he had led a heart to dummy's queen.

He would have been mighty lucky, but good play would have given luck that chance to take over.

N-Waste Site Choice Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — No test drilling site for a proposed nuclear dumping ground in Michigan has been chosen, a federal spokesman said Friday.

B. N. McCarty, a spokesman for the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA), denied that a spot 10 miles west of Alpena has been picked as an initial test drilling site to check the areas subterranean salt beds. The beds are deemed ideal for waste storage because of their stability and depth, ranging up to 5,000 feet.

"A specific site has not been pinpointed. I don't think that much work has been completed," McCarty said, confirming the area covered by Montmorency, Presque Isle and Alpena counties was being checked. In addition, the state Department of Natural Resources said Friday it has not issued a drilling permit for the site.

However, Thomas Lomenick, the geologist in charge of the federal project, said last month the Alpena site was being considered to provide general information about the three-county area.

McCarty also said the agency would not arbitrarily force the proposed atomic waste site on Michigan. He made the remarks in response to a story in Friday's editions of the Detroit Free Press.

The Free Press reported that ERDA had rejected a demand from Gov. William Milliken that he be given veto power should Michigan be pinpointed as a dumping site for high-level nuclear wastes.

McCarty did not deny the accuracy of that report, but added:

"We didn't want to give the impression that Michigan is being singled out. We don't plan to go into Michigan without extensive hearings" required for a necessary federal license, issued by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. "It's a long way down the road before anything will be determined," he said.

"We will have an overall program designed to inform not only the state officials at the DNR but also people in areas affected of every step that we would take along the way," he said.

Stars Taking Field In Primary Finale

By Associated Press
Ohio, one of the three states in Tuesday's Super Bowl primary finale, becomes the focus of intensive political campaigning this weekend.

Democratic challengers to Jimmy Carter will be seeking to blunt his nomination drive and President Ford will be after votes to offset Ronald Reagan's anticipated victory in California's winner-take-all primary.

Democrats Morris Udall and Frank Church were stumping the state today. Carter, who has more than 900 committed delegates with 1,905 needed for nomination, completed a two-day blitz Friday night. He said a victory in the state would be a "major arguing point" for his nomination. He was to return Sunday after a quick campaign trip to New Jersey.

New Jersey, Ohio and California hold the last primary elections before the nomination conventions, with a total of 540 Democratic and 331 Republican delegates at stake. California gives the most GOP delegates, 167, and the most Democrat delegates, 280.

Reagan was to arrive in Columbus (this afternoon) to begin a two-day swing across Ohio, President Ford campaigns in the state Sunday and Monday.

Ford says the Ohio Republican contest is significant because a substantial triumph would balance off Reagan's anticipated victory in California.

He admitted that, in his race against Reagan, "we're an underdog in California. We recognize it and so it is vitally important that we maximize our vote in Ohio as well as in New Jersey."

"We feel that with the momentum we have going that we can get a significant number of the Ohio delegates in partial offset of the anticipated situation in California."

Ford said in Washington Friday that he is confident of a first ballot victory at the GOP convention. He said he agrees with Vice President Nelson A.

Rockefeller and other political observers who say he will fall short of winning the number of committed delegates needed for nomination. But he said he expects to make up the difference in uncommitted delegates by the time of the Kansas City convention in August.

Ford now has 805 committed delegates, Reagan has 655 and there are 143 uncommitted. It takes 1,130 to win the nomination.

Carter and Church attended the same political rally Friday night in a Polish neighborhood in northern Toledo, but missed meeting each other.

Probation, Fine For Loader Driver

A man originally charged with negligent homicide involving the death of a 19-year-old girl was sentenced yesterday to time and costs of $200 and one year probation on a reduced charge.

Sentenced yesterday in Berrien Fifth District court for reckless driving was Edward E. Hayden, 36, of 1721 St. Joseph road, Berrien Springs. He pleaded no contest to the charge last month and was sentenced Friday by District Judge Hugh Black.

He was the driver of a front-end loader which crashed head-on with a car driven by Kathleen O'Brien, of Britain avenue, Benton township, on Sept. 17, 1975. Home Fire Is Doggone Mysterious GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A large dog, drew the blame Thursday for causing a house fire. "We think the dog was to blame. But he's not talking," reported Raymond Donahue, a fire investigator. The blaze began when a gasoline can overturned in a storage room, he said, adding a spark or pilot light could have ignited the fumes. The unidentified dog — a Doberman — awakened the family with his barking. The George Whitfield family, including three young children, escaped unharmed. Damage to their home was estimated at $1,400.

Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG AP Newswriters
Q. — We're getting ready to pour a concrete driveway. How thick should the concrete be?
A. — If only your own automobile is to move along the driveway, the concrete can be about 3½ inches thick. If service and delivery trucks are to use the driveway, even occasionally, it should be at least 5 and preferably 6 inches thick. Because local building regulations often control the construction of a concrete driveway, better check first with the building department.

Q. — You told someone he could buy a particular type of insulation to fit the inside of a toilet tank to keep it from sweating. I have tried several hardware stores without success. Can you help me?
A. — Most plumbing supply dealers carry such insulation. If the one in your neighborhood doesn't have it, he can order it for you from a manufacturer.

FAIR TIME

If the youngsters in your family are going to grow vegetables for the Berrien County Youth Fair, but have not started, they had better get cracking. The days to harvest from seed or plants is a constant and very little can be done to hurry them up. About 70 days remain. Even green beans take 50 days to mature. Check the days to harvest on the seed package.

TREE PROBLEMS

White oak trees show a considerable amount of brown, dead and distorted leaves due to a fungus infection called anthracnose. There is nothing to be done about it. The trees will live without a spray.

Maple petiole borer may cause leaves to drop off maple. This small worm tunnels in the petiole (stem) of the leaf. Although quite a few leaves may drop, no control measures need be taken.

Apple scab infection has developed on flowering crab and pyracantha. The leaves will fall from the flowering crab and if unchecked will cause the berries of pyracantha to turn black. Caplan or Benlate fungicide sprays after rainy periods will help prevent the problem.

Accused Attacker Demands Hearing

A man arrested on charges of entering the home of a Benton Harbor woman, threatening her with a butcher knife and raping her several times demanded examination at arraignment in Berrien Fifth District court Friday.

Jailed under $25,000 bond was Arthur Lee Cannon, 23, of 2024 Territorial road, Benton township. He is charged with first degree criminal sexual conduct — forcible rape.

The incident, involving a 23-year-old woman, occurred during Wednesday night and Thursday morning, according to the warrant.

The victim said yesterday that there were several inaccuracies in the story as it was reported in this newspaper Friday.

She said the assailant tore her clothes off. The story indicated the man had forced her to take her clothes off. She added that she had scratched the man on his back, not on his hand. Additionally, she said, it was not correct that she had gotten out of the house in an attempt to flee and was dragged back. She said she did not get out of the house, but had been pushed back before she got to the door when she made an attempt to flee.

Ex-Mental Patient Can Be Tried, Judge Rules

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON Staff Writer

Berrien Circuit Judge William S. White Friday ruled a man who served six years at a state mental hospital as a criminal sexual psychopath can stand trial in Allegan county on a murder charge stemming from the 1967 slaying of a seven-year-old girl.

White, who heard defense motions in Allegan Circuit court as a visiting judge, denied the claims of Theodore Williams, 36, who contended a trial should not be held.

White also held that although Williams was never sentenced, there was no evidence that the prosecution had been abandoned, and Williams was not prejudiced because of the delay.

Williams is being held in the Allegan county jail without bond, and Allegan Prosecutor Fred Hunter, III, yesterday said a trial date for Williams may be scheduled for sometime in the fall.

A revolutionary home design.

This economical two-story home turns its back to the street (or takes beautiful advantage of a view) to create an uncommon sense of privacy even in a busy urban setting.

Inspired by America's revolutionary period, its gambrel-roofed design is further distinguished by the almost exclusive use of naturally appealing cedar, inside and out.

Even more revolutionary are its unique and enduring structural advantages (like steel-reinforced beams) and extraordinary design flexibility.

Thanks to a post-and-beam building system, you can move or delete interior walls, add to its 1,615 sq. ft., or otherwise customize, exactly as you wish. Simply and inexpensively.

Further, it's a house that "comes to you" — in the form of a complete, pre-cut and part-numbered structural package — ready for fast assembly by any builder or handy owner.

READY TO ROLL: Van Buren county's new transportation service for handicapped and elderly will begin operation Monday. Service will run five days per week between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., according to Carl Friel, program director (next to bus). Trips will cost 50 cents one way. Program is subsidized by federal and state grants and local contributions. (Staff photo)

New Bus Plan For Van Buren Starts Monday

HARTFORD — A new transportation service designed to ease the travel problems of the elderly and handicapped is set to begin operation in Van Buren county Monday. The program, a joint effort of the Van Buren Transportation Task Force and regional and county commissions on aging, will make it possible for any senior citizen (60 or older) or handicapped person to go anywhere in the county one day per week for 50 cents ($1 round trip).

The county's 18 townships have been divided into five zones, with each zone assigned use of a mini-bus one day per week.

There will be one bus, equipped with a lift for wheelchairs, when the system begins operating Monday, with a second bus expected to arrive in two to four weeks, according to Carl Friel, program coordinator.

To use the service, persons should call for an advanced reservation 24 hours prior to the day the bus will be in their zone. Friel said a route for the next day will then be set up to accommodate all those who want to use the service.

Zones and numbers for making reservations are: Monday — (621-4103) Hartford, Lawrence, Keeler and Hamilton townships. Tuesday — (427-7844) Arling-ton, Bangor, Columbia, and Geneva townships.

Wednesday (637-1887) South Haven and Covert townships.

Thursday — (621-2395) Almena, Bloomingdale, Pine Grove, and Waverly townships. Friday — (637-3570) Antwerp, Decatur, Paw Paw, and Porter townships.

Friel explained that many senior citizens and others now find the cost of taxis prohibitive and that private bus transportation is limited. The new service is expected to make getting to the doctor, shopping, or social services much easier.

The first-year budget of the program is $31,500 and is financed primarily from federal and state grants. Fares, which are expected to amount to between $8,000 and $10,000 the first year, plus about $6,000 in local contributions from municipalities based on 10 cents per capita, will also help offset the cost of operations.

Bottle Ban Signatures

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The issue of banning nonreturnable beverage containers is a step closer today to being placed on the November ballot. The Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC) has filed 380,000 signatures with state officials seeking to place the question before the voters this fall. The signatures were far in excess of the 212,000 required under state law. The MUCC launched its petition drive April 15, with Gov. William Milliken signing the first petition. The signatures were filed with the Secretary of State's office. State officials will review the signatures to see that all the signers are registered voters and that the signatures meet all other legal requirements. If the proposal is permitted on the ballot, voters will have an opportunity to make a ban on nonreturnable beverage containers a requirement under state law.

Chemical Plant Warned

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State officials have warned a Monticue chemical plant its wastewater discharge permit may be revoked after they found traces of a component of the pesticide Kepone. An informal hearing is scheduled here Monday to allow Hooker Chemical and Plastics Co. officials to show if they do or can meet discharge standards. The chemical involved has the jaw-breaking name of hexachlorocyclopentadiene, also known as HCP or C6. It has a variety of uses but is most commonly employed in polyester resins. Hooker still makes the products. It is one of the ingredients for Kepone, a pesticide linked with health problems for workers at a Hopewell, Va., plant. The Virginia production of Kepone has been halted but it led to damage suits seeking over $30 million. Virginia authorities banned fishing in the James River because of discharges of the pesticide. The river closing brought more damage suits by fishermen.

Mandatory Life Term

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state's mandatory life sentence for first-degree murder does not violate a constitutional ban on cruel and unusual punishment, the state Supreme Court said. The court upheld the first-degree murder conviction in Detroit Recorder's Court of John Sam Hall, who was charged with the robbery and beating death of Albert Hoffman in 1967. Hall's first trial ended in a hung jury. His later conviction was upheld by the Court of Appeals. The Supreme Court rejected all of Hall's arguments against the conviction. It also said the life sentence he received does not violate guarantees of due process and equal protection. The opinion came on a 3-2 vote. The dissenters, Chief Justice Thomas G. Kavanagh and Justice G. Mennen Williams, would have reversed the conviction on grounds the closing arguments of the prosecutor were inflammatory and improper.

Breach Of Contract

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Supreme Court ruled that a new business may recover anticipated profits lost through breach of contract. The decision reversed a ruling by the state Court of Appeals which said lost profits for a new business were not a proper part of damages awarded in a case. The appeals court also said the lost profits were speculative.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Assault, Vandalism Complaints Probed

A Benton Harbor woman who allegedly tried to run down a man with her car and then chased him on foot with a knife yesterday afternoon was booked on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon — when she appeared at police headquarters about an hour later to pay an unrelated traffic ticket, according to city police.

Reported arrested was Valerie Phyllis Sessom, 26, of 631 Broadway.

Police identified the allegedly intended victim as Otis Harris, 21, of 766 Pipestone street. Benton Harbor, who was reported injured.

The car and knife incidents were reported at 1:44 p.m. at Empire avenue and Broadway near the Village Variety store, police said.

Police said the parking ticket was not related to the alleged attack.

Four school-related vandalism reports yesterday were investigated by Benton Harbor and Benton township police. Pamela Neubacher, a teacher at Seely-McCord elementary school, 465 South McCord street, told city police at 4:08 p.m. that the windshield of her car was broken while the vehicle was parked in the school lot. Barbara Hamilton told township police at 10:43 a.m. that an egg was broken on her car, a tack was stuck in a tire and fire valve caps were removed while her vehicle was parked in the lot of Baynton elementary school, 1700 East Britain avenue, where she teaches.

Charles J. Forker, 1055 McAllister avenue, Benton Harbor, told township police at 10:43 a.m. a car he was driving on Broadway near Elverson, Fairplain, was struck by rocks hurled by a group of students leaving Fairplain junior high school.

City police at 9:46 p.m. responded to an alarm from Calvin Britain school, 289 East Britain, and found that three windows were broken. The building was not entered, police said.

Thefts reported to Benton Harbor police:

—Cash totaling $117 from the trousers of Harold Gast hanging in the Wash Bowl, 411 East Main street, while Gast was painting in work clothes.

—A 15 by 13-foot rug, valued at $100, from a house at 393 Miller street, owned by Wesley Street, 642 East Main street.

—A lounge chair and bookcase, valued at $130, from the home of Roosevelt Boone, 411 Payne street.

—A television set, valued at $85, from the home of John Hollis, 708 Payne.

She Had To Wait

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — A wounded policeman had to wait at least five minutes and perhaps as long as 15 minutes before going to a hospital because the first call for an ambulance was cancelled, according to trial testimony. Testifying at the trial of officer Madeline Fletcher, ambulance driver Albert Spaseta said police called for an ambulance the morning of a gunbattle between Miss Fletcher and her partner, but cancelled the call about two minutes later. Miss Fletcher, who is black, and her partner Walter Koberger, who is white, wounded each other in a shootout in the police garage following an argument over who would drive their patrol car, earlier testimony has shown. Miss Fletcher has been charged with assault in the incident. Spaseta said he and his partner went back to bed after the first call was cancelled. He said they were called to the police station again later.

License Revocation Upheld

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The revocation of former state Rep. John Smoekens' law license has been upheld by the state Supreme Court. The action upholds an earlier decision by the State Bar Grievance Board, which yanked Smoekens' license on grounds of professional misconduct. The court, in a 6-0 ruling, rejected Smoekens' argument that the rules of the grievance board denied him a reasonable opportunity to present a defense. He also argued he was denied a fair trial before an impartial body because the functions of prosecutor, judge and jury were under one authority. The high court noted that the Coldwater Republican failed to appear to present his side of the case. A State Bar Grievance Board panel last year revoked Smoekens' license, finding him guilty of seven counts of professional misconduct. The panel said that as a legislator Smoekens cheated the state on his travel expenses and hid his financial interest in the Hillsdale Foundry Co. while representing the firm before government agencies.

The Shotguns Are Loaded

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Some Buena Vista Township residents have retreated behind locked doors and have armed themselves with loaded shotguns in the wake of the unsolved murders of two young sisters. "Everything is tense, you can feel it up and down the street," said Clarence Gutman, Jr., whose father found the bodies of Carla and Carman Otto last Tuesday. The two girls, age 13 and 10, were found stabbed to death in their home. Gutman, who admits to keeping a loaded gun in his house, says, "If we can see you, it's alright. But don't let anybody start kicking on doors, because folks here are going to shoot first and ask questions later."

City-Owned Utilities

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Twenty-one state senators have introduced a bill that would allow Michigan's city-owned utilities to buy into stalled construction projects of the Detroit Edison Co. and Consumers Power Co. The 90-page bill also would allow the state's 42 municipal utilities to join with each other or with electric cooperatives to build generating plants or other distribution equipment. State Sen. James DeSena, D-Wyandotte, chief sponsor of the bill, said it would be a short-term solution to state energy problems. He said it also would increase employment by getting work going again on several partially-completed plants begun by Edison and Consumers. City-owned utilities can get capital to fund construction at lower interest rates than private utilities. They now sell electric power at rates somewhat lower than private utilities.

One-Man Grand Jury

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP) — Hillsdale County Circuit Court Judge Kenneth Prettie has approved a one-man grand jury which will probe the Hillsdale County Sheriff's Department. Judge Prettie named Probate Judge Harvey Moes as the grand juror. Judge Prettie acted on a petition filed by Prosecutor Lawrence Hayes Jr., who said he felt the grand jury was necessary to look into as yet unspecified allegations against the department. Spokesmen for the sheriff's department have declined comment.

Murder Suspect Hunted

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit police are searching for a 15-year-old youth charged with first degree murder who escaped Friday from the Wayne County Youth Home. Police say the youth escaped from the home after breaking a first-floor window and crawling out. The young man, a member of an east-side street gang, is charged with murder in the shooting death of Farrell Robinson, 16. Police say three gang members walked into an alley and started shooting, hitting Robinson.

False Alarm Came From...

DETROIT (AP) — A fireman was sentenced to one year on probation after pleading guilty to turning in a false alarm. Dan Gravitt, 33, made the plea during a trial in which the prosecution charged he phoned in the false alarm while he was off-duty on Dec. 19, 1975. Testimony at the trial showed that while firemen were answering the call, a fire station locker was broken into and $120 was stolen. When the fire dispatcher replayed the tape recording of the false alarm, several firemen said they recognized Gravitt's voice.

Barber Shop Raided

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit police have confiscated an estimated $25,000 in alleged stolen goods in raids on a barber shop and upstairs apartment. Police said they confiscated about $15,000 in tools, television sets, tires, cameras and other goods from the Afro-American Barber Shop. In a second raid, police said they obtained an additional $10,000 in goods from the upstairs living quarters. The owner of the barber shop was arrested but released later.

DELEGATE: Jerry Shafer, 26, has won a seat at the Salt Lake county and Utah state Democratic conventions despite the fact that he is a jail inmate on a work release program, serving time for a misdemeanor theft. His seating was upheld this week by the county Democratic Central committee, with the provision Shafer's opponent be seated as well. (AP Wirephoto)

Sen. Brooke Files For Divorce

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., has filed for divorce from his wife Remigia, according to his Boston office.

The senator's divorce suit was filed in Probate Court in Cambridge. A spokesman for the senator said Friday the suit was not expected to be contested, and was filed under the state's no fault divorce law.

The senator and Mrs. Brooke have been living apart for some time.

Brooke met his wife, the former Remigia Ferrari-Seaco, in Italy while serving in World War II. They have two children, Remi, 27, and Edwin, 24.

THEY'D BE EXEMPT LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Medical personnel involved in the swine flu mass immunization program would be exempt from most malpractice suits under legislation in the House.

Buchanan Voting On Two Posts, Millage

BUCHANAN — Buchanan school district voters will fill two school board vacancies from a field of six candidates during the June 14 annual school election. The voters will also decide the fate of three property tax levy proposals totaling 20.4 mills.

Seeking the two, four-year terms on the board are one incumbent, Robert L. Luke, and five challengers, Robert Don Clifford, Mrs. Mary Firehammer, Robert F. Hand, Dr. Charles F. Ward and Alan R. Watson.

Voters may cast votes for two candidates. The top two vote-getters win the election. In the millage proposals, voters will cast either yes or no votes for three separate propositions.

The largest proposal asks voters for the second time this year to approve the renewal of a 17-mill property tax levy for three years. That levy expired with the 1975 tax collection and its renewal was defeated at the polls March 8 as part of a 20-mill property tax package. The other part was also defeated.

The other proposals on the June ballot ask for 2.4 mills for one year to restore a variety of proposed program cuts and one mill for three years to finance what school officials say are much needed building repairs.

The 17-mill proposal, if passed, would generate about $2,774,868, according to school officials. That amount will finance "a very bare program next year," according to David Hanson, school board president. Approval of only the 17-mill proposal will result in the closing of the Indian Hills elementary school, the elimination of some teaching positions, the reduction of custodial costs and no tax money would be spent on athletics and other extra-school activities, according to school officials.

Approval of the 2.4-mill proposal would result in most of these cuts being restored, and approval of the one-mill request would provide funds for a variety of needed repairs including leaking roofs and windows.

Hanson, one of two members whose term expires in June, has announced he will not seek re-election. Luke, the other incumbent, is seeking election to a full, four-year term after being appointed to fill a vacancy last July, a month after being defeated in the 1975 election.

Luke, 44, of 319 Terre Coupe road, Buchanan, is a supervisor at Simplicity Pattern company, Niles. He and his wife, Mary Louise, have three children.

All five challengers are seeking a board seat for the first time.

Clifford, 32, of 315 Claremont street, Buchanan, said he is presently unemployed. A bachelor, he previously worked for Clark Equipment company, Buchanan.

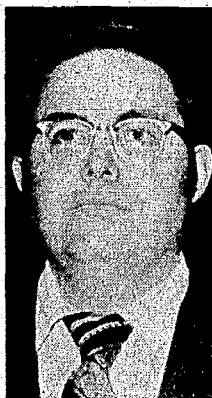

Mrs. Firehammer, 57, of 2670 Mayflower road, Niles, has been active in the band and orchestra association and parent-teacher groups. She and her husband, Waldermar, have five children.

Hand, 37, of 116 Huron drive, Buchanan, is an engineer at Clark Equipment company and served on the recently formed citizens advisory committee to the school board. He and his wife, Sharon, have two children.

Dr. Ward, 42, of 3545 Buffalo road, Niles, is a veterinarian with an office at his home. He and his wife, Dorothy, have three children.

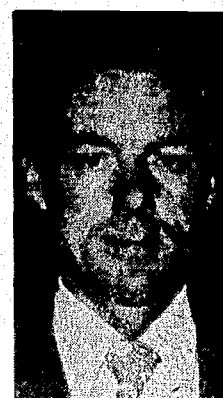

Watson, 32, of 2185 Red Bud trail south, Niles, is a senior engineer at Electro-Voice corporation, Buchanan. He and his wife, Jeannie, have one child.

DREDGE REBUILDING ST. JOE BEACH

Courts Overseer Quitting

William H. Evan Jr., Berrien county's courts administrator since the position was established nearly three years ago, has announced his resignation effective Aug. 1.

In a letter to Circuit Judges Julian H. Hughes, William S. White and Chester J. Byrns, Evan said "the death of my parents this year, coupled with virtually no vacation time in these past three years, suggest a rest is needed."

Evan also cited a list of his accomplishments in the unique position, including helping Berrien county obtain a new fourth circuit judgeship, and said his efforts have resulted in "the saving of nearly $200,000 for Berrien county taxpayers in the operation of their courts."

At the time Evan was named to the post, it was the only one of its kind in Michigan with administrative authority over all three levels of court — District, Probate and Circuit.

Evan noted that much of his work has centered around improvements in the operation of District court, but that these duties now will be assumed by Todd H. Barton, newly-appointed District court administrator.

"With the foregoing (improvements) completed and now that Mr. Barton is on board, the need for my services for District court no longer exist," Evan said. "The opportunity for like progress in Circuit court...is not available as the situation is entirely different."

Among the accomplishments

WILLIAM H. EVAN JR.
Leaving Courts Post

cited by Evan as courts administrator are creating a separate department of District court probation, creating a position of security receptionist for District court judges and centralizing of all bonding services in one location near the courthouse.

Other accomplishments included installation of a separate telephone system for District court that has eliminated phone jams, obtaining improved recording equipment for District court that has reduced lost court time and obtaining at virtually no cost to the county an ongoing analysis of District court operations by a survey team from the Michigan Supreme court administrator's office.

Evan, 42, is married and has six children.

Work On $447,000 Project Should Be Done July 4

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is rebuilding the beach immediately south of the St. Joseph piers, but it doesn't have the money to do two other beaches farther south as planned.

Col. James E. Hays, Detroit district engineer, said yesterday the project underway to rebuild the St. Joseph beach will cost about $447,000. As originally planned, the project would have cost $875,000 and would have involved two other beaches in the Shoreham area, he said.

Hays, who was in St. Joseph to explain the project, said Congress had only made about $450,000 available for erosion control work this summer.

The St. Joseph beach was chosen instead of one of the others because, "We can do more with our money here," Hays said.

One of the two beaches that will have to wait for more funds is a 1,400-foot beach in Shoreham in the vicinity of Brown school road. The other beach runs for about 1,500 feet north of the Shoreham village limits, according to Hays.

Describing the project underway at the St. Joseph beach, Hays said a dredge operated by the corps vacuums unpolluted sand from the lake bottom near the mouth of the St. Joseph river and then returns to a dock where it pumps the material through a 1,605-foot pipeline to the beach.

When completed, about 180,000 cubic yards of sand will be spread along a 3,500-foot stretch of beach from Elm street to the St. Joseph water pumping station.

Hays said enlarging the beach just south of the piers means, "We're getting two jobs done here for one — dredging and erosion control."

Widening the beach with sand will compensate for erosion that occurs because of the interruption of currents by the piers, Hays said.

Money for the project is from the federal River and Harbor act of 1968, which directs the Corps to undertake projects for the prevention of damage caused by federal navigation structures, such as piers, Hays said.

Corps' studies have shown

COL. JAMES E. HAYS
Explaining project

that the piers are responsible for the erosion of 1,000 to 140,000 cubic yards of sand yearly, he said. The Corps will pump an additional 100,000 cubic yards of sand onto the St. Joseph beach annually to compensate for the loss, he said.

Ross B. Kittleman, a Corps engineer from the Grand Haven office, said that the enlarged beach is technically called a "feeder beach" because as it erodes its sand moves along the beach filling other voids.

He said that the dredge is prohibited by the Environmental Protection Agency from taking sand from the inner harbor because that sand is polluted. Only sand from outside the harbor can be dredged, and in the past it was taken a few miles out into the lake and dumped, he said.

The inner harbor and turning basin won't be dredged until local government finds a site for the polluted material, Hays said.

The "feeder beach" concept is new, and the only other one in the United States was built a few months ago in Hawaii, according to Hays.

Unpolluted sand gathered by the Corps' dredge, the Hains, which is working at the far end of the piers and beyond, is being pumped to the north end of the proposed beach.

A 1,605-foot stretch of 20-inch diameter pipe has been laid along the shoreline. The Hains goes out to the lake, "vacuums" up about 300 cubic yards of sand and returns to the origin of the pipe, on the south pier. The sand is pumped to the new beach, where two bulldozers begin to spread the sand, according to Hays.

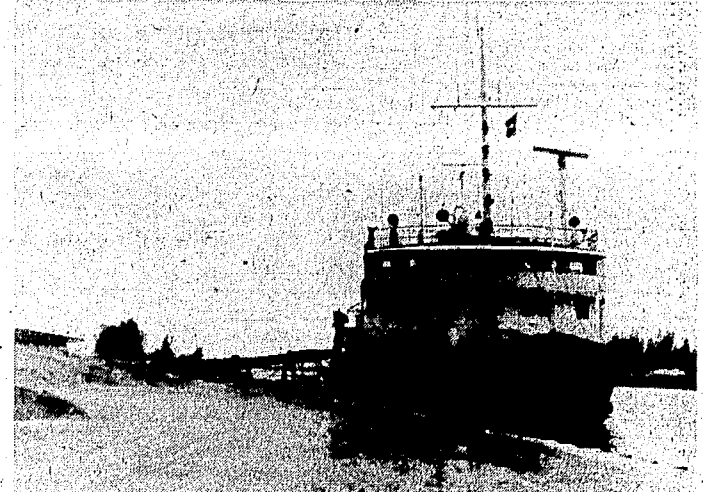

Hays, district engineer with final authority over the project, said that the pumping of sand should be completed by June 30. All of the equipment should be removed by the Fourth of July, he added.

Gas Well Fire

WATERS, Mich. (AP) — Firefighting pro Paul "Red" Adair must watch out for poison gas as well as deadly heat when he takes preliminary steps today to find a solution to quiet a furiously burning gas well. Adair said flames from the burning well must be brought under control before he can attempt to put the fire out. Adair said poisonous gas could seep out of the well if the fire were put out immediately. He says it will be at least a week before he takes his "walk into hell" inside the center of the well to cap it. Adair, who has fought more than 2,000 oil well fires, described the well as "one of the toughest. There certainly is a danger there."

Rights Party Candidate

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Lansing Community College professor will run as the Human Rights Party candidate for the 6th congressional district seat. The party announced that it has nominated James M. McClure, an American Government professor, to run for the seat now held by Democrat M. Robert Carr. McClure is a former Meridian Township and Ingham County supervisor. In 1967-68 he served as deputy Secretary of State for Michigan.

PIPELINE BEGINNING: This view shows Corps' dredge, the Hains, tied up at beginning of 1,605-foot long feeder pipeline to St. Joseph beach. Ship will pump its 300 cubic yard load of sand through pipe to beach. Then dredge returns to lake area beyond St. Joseph pier to vacuum up another load. In lake, dredge drops large pipe from each side to lake bottom. Dredge, which operates 24 hours a day, six days a week, can gather 20 loads each day. (Walter Booth photo)

THE END: Sand and water pumped from the dredge Hains is deposited at a point on the shore near the intersection of Elm and Lake streets, St. Joseph. Bulldozers, and the Lake's current, will spread the sand to create the first "feeder beach" erosion control structure ever built in the continental United States, according to the Army Corps of Engineers. Dredge Hains, at other end of 1,605-foot long pipeline, is tied up in mouth of St. Joseph river beyond tree line on horizon of this view. (Walter Booth photos)

Lawrence Liquor Vote Is Monday

LAWRENCE — Village residents here go to the polls Monday, for the fourth time in recent years, to decide whether liquor by-the-glass should be served in the two taverns in the village.

The proposal has been defeated three times before, the last time in March when a 105 to 105 tie was declared a loss.

Tavern owner Arthur Haney in April presented to the council petitions asking that the proposal be put on the ballot again. It was signed by about 100 people. There are about 300 registered voters in the village.

Tavern owners can sell only wine and beer by the glass now.

Polls at the fire station on North Paw Paw street will be open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. Only registered voters who live in the village can vote.

PAUL BERGAN

Paul Bergan Named New BH Grid Coach

Paul Bergan has been appointed new head football coach at Benton Harbor high school.

Bergan, who developed a winning football program at Eau Claire, has been the Benton Harbor head football coach the last five years.

The 33-year-old Bergan takes over the football post from Eugene Jones, Tiger coach the last two years. The Benton Harbor board of education terminated the contract of Jones Jan. 15 because of an alleged discrepancy in his teaching credentials.

Under Jones the Tigers were 3-43, including an 1-8 record last year when they ended up with the worst defense in the area. Benton Harbor has an 8-36 record the last five years and hasn't had a winning season since 1970 when it was 5-4.

"It's a terrific opportunity and I'm not shirking the challenge a bit," commented Bergan, who flew from Texas where he's attending graduate school in Benton Harbor for meetings Friday at the school. "It's a type of program where we can do the similar things we did at Eau Claire and build our own program."

with some good young people, and it's the biggest school in the league. The only reason they're not winning is not getting the kids out. So we're really going to work on getting the kids out. What we want to do for our first year here is to build a solid program through quality people and establish pride in Benton Harbor high school."

Bergan also called for the support of the community to help build the program.

"I'm not going in as some kind of Messiah...one man can't do it all. We need the support of the staff, the school and the entire community. If we all get together we can do the job. It won't be an overnight thing...it'll take a lot of hard work."

Before Bergan came to Eau Claire, the Beavers had only won one game over two years. But under Bergan in 1971 the Beavers did an about-face with a 5-2-1 record. The following year Eau Claire finished with an 8-4 mark and captured the Red Arrow championship. Bergan was named Region No. 5 District Coach of the Year for the Beavers' success.

Bergan ended with an overall record of 27-14-1 at Eau Claire.

including a 4-4 mark last fall. During his five-year tenure Bergan produced three Associated Press all-stars, with Don McVee winning Class C honors last fall.

Bergan was also a highly successful wrestling coach at Eau Claire, with the Beavers registering an 86-11 record in dual matches under his tutelage.

Before coming to Eau Claire Bergan was an assistant football coach at Dallas (Tex.) and East Moline (Ill.) high schools. Bergan, who was born in South Bend, is a graduate of Lewis College, Lockport (Ill.). He is currently working on his master's degree in administration at Texas A&M at Corpus Christi (Tex.).

Bergan is a member of the Eau Claire village council and also president of the Eau Claire Parks and Recreation Department. He and his wife Linda have four children.

Bergan, also active in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, has used a ground-oriented attack at Eau Claire while maintaining the pass. The Tigers, on the other hand, have passed for over 1,000 yards the last two years behind the arm of Mike Schultz, who has graduated.

"What we're going to stress here are fundamentals. No. 1 is blocking and tackling. We're going to work on fundamentals the first day until the last day. We're going to be fundamentally sound."

"The other thing is we're going to be organized. We're going to organize the coaching staff and build continuity throughout the whole system."

Bergan becomes the fourth new head football coach at Benton Harbor in the last nine years.

Celtics Outlast Suns In Wild Marathon

BOSTON (AP) — Coach Tommy Heinsohn felt ill and begged off the usual post-game interview. In Jo White slumped in a chair and asked no one in particular: "Would you believe we've got another game in Phoenix Sunday?"

That was the atmosphere in the Boston Celtics' dressing room early today, 3 hours and 8 minutes after they had tapped off in a pivotal game with the Phoenix Suns Friday night at the Garden.

The Celtics, bidding for an unprecedented 13th National Basketball Association championship, blew a 22-point first-half lead and then edged the Cinderella Suns from Phoenix 128-126 in triple overtime for a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven showdown.

The game was a heart-slogger, as the Suns fought back throughout regulation, forcing Boston captain John Havlicek to sink one of two free throws to send the game into the first overtime.

White, a veteran sharpshooter, saved his best for the overtime periods, hitting five of his game-high 13 in that stretch. He got plenty of help from young Glenn McDonald and Jim Ard, pressed into action after Dave Cowens and Paul Silas fouled out.

McDonald came off the bench after Silas fouled out in the third overtime of the longest championship round playoff game in NBA history. He sank two baskets, breaking a 118-118 tie. Later he converted two pressure-free throws.

Ard, who spends most of the time on the bench as Cowens' understudy, said he had lost track of the number of fouls on Boston's veteran center.

Havlicek missed a corner jumper as the first overtime ended 101-101. Then he appeared to give the Celtics a 111-110 victory by banking a running shot as the buzzer sounded for what apparently was the end of the second overtime.

Many of the Celtics hurried to the dressing room. Fans swarmed onto the court, as Phoenix Coach John MacLeod desperately tried to get the attention of the officials. He finally did. The Celtics had to return to the floor. MacLeod then called a time out, with one second left.

The Suns already were over the limit on times out, so the Celtics were awarded a technical foul. White making the free throw. Then, taking the ball in at midcourt, the Suns set up Gar Heard, who hit on a game-tying jump shot from the key, forcing still a third overtime.

Boston sprinted to a 128-120 lead and was in front 128-122 with just 31 seconds left. Then the Celtics had to survive a pair of baskets by former teammate Paul Westphal and a near steal in the closing seconds.

FINALLY A CELEBRATION: Fans mob the floor at Boston Garden Friday night as the Celtics' Dave Cowens (left) heads for the locker room. Boston finally topped Phoenix 128-126 in the third overtime period to take a 3-2 lead in the NBA championship series. (AP Wirephoto).

UNDER PRESSURE: Garfield Heard of the Phoenix Suns looks for an opening with heavy pressure from Boston's John Havlicek (left) and Paul Silas (right). Helping is teammate Paul Westphal. Siderowf In Final

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — Scots talk of Dick Siderowf, bidding for his second British Amateur golf title, as the man who never knows when he's beaten.

The 38-year-old stockbroker from Westport, Conn., faces England's John Davies today in a 36-hole final over the famed Old Course at St. Andrews. To get there, Siderowf has come from behind to win four straight match-play duels after being two holes down.

Siderowf's latest Houdini act dashed the hopes of Scottish golfers—and in this land of heather and whiskey, that means every able-bodied male above the age of six. In the semifinals Friday, he was two holes down to Scotland's Allan Brodie with only six holes to play. True to form, Siderowf kept his cool and defeated Brodie 2 and 1. In previous rounds, he'd eliminated Graham MacIntyre of Canada, David Long of England and Willie Paterson of Scotland in that order—and each of them led by two holes at some stage of the match.

Siderowf has an old score to settle with Davies, his opponent in the final. The Englishman defeated him in a Walker Cup match in 1973.

Scottish hopes were high at one stage of the semifinals, when Brodie led Siderowf and Ian Carslaw was up on Davies. It looked like the day might end by setting up the first all-Scottish final since 1921. But it quite didn't work out that way.

Siderowf's charge to victory started at the 13th. Brodie, who had been as steady as a rock, got into a terrible mess—first in a bunker and then in the bushes. Siderowf went on to win three holes in a row, grabbed the lead and kept it.

Siderowf won the title in 1973, so victory would put him among the small select band of golfers who have won it twice.

Vinny Gile of Richmond, Va., last year's winner, was a hot favorite to do it until Davies eliminated him 3 and 1 in the quarter-finals Friday morning. The 64-4 yard, par-36-38-72 course has basked in sunshine these last two days. Weather experts said rain, which plagued the start of the championship last Monday, could return for today's final.

Aaron Martin stroked four hits and Ken Anslay had a double and homer as Chickhaven beat Independence 11-10 in South Branch YMCA softball league action.

Steve Adrian had three hits and Wayne Butler and Paul Osekka two in Snug Harbor's 8-5 win over Ball Rubber. Bruce Molinewas rapped two hits as Bill's Tap stopped Barchett's 7-4.

Messersmith Hurls Gem Reuschel Loses Two-Hitter To Astros

From ASSOCIATED PRESS For eight innings, the only wind at Jarry Park was the swish of Montreal bats.

Then came the ninth. "I made one mistake and I missed by three or four inches," said Andy Messersmith.

The error of location cost the Atlanta pitcher a no-bitter. With one out, Pepe Manguel smashed Messersmith's mistake pitch into left field for a single, the only hit off the right-hander. And a resigned Messersmith had to settle for a one-hit, 2-0 victory over the Expos.

Before Manguel broke Messersmith's spell, the right-hander had allowed only two runners in the game — one on his own error and another on a walk in the first inning.

Elsewhere in the National League, the New York Mets blasted the Los Angeles Dodgers 11-0; the Houston Astros overcame Rick Reuschel's two-hitter to score a 1-0 triumph.

Astros left-fielder Jose Cruz hit an infield single in the second inning and went to third base on the play when Reuschel threw wildly past first base for an error. Cruz scored on third baseman Enos Cabell's grounder.

the San Diego Padres 7-2 and the San Francisco Giants beat the Philadelphia Phillies 5-1.

Dave Kingman smashed three homers and drove in eight runs to back Tom Seaver's three-hit pitching as New York routed Los Angeles. Kingman, setting a Met record for RBI in one game, slugged a two-run homer in the fourth, a three-run homer in the fifth and another three-run shot in the seventh. His performance gave him 20 homers for the season, tops in the major leagues.

Seaver, 34, ended a personal four-game losing streak with his first victory in a month.

Houston's Mike Cosgrove scattered six hits and the Astros overcame Rick Reuschel's two-hitter to score a 1-0 triumph.

Astros left-fielder Jose Cruz hit an infield single in the second inning and went to third base on the play when Reuschel threw wildly past first base for an error. Cruz scored on third baseman Enos Cabell's grounder.

Cosgrove, 23, preserved his shutout by pitching his way out of Chicago threats in the first and fifth innings for his first victory since April 23.

Reuschel, 34, yielded only one other hit in the game, a first-inning single to Cesar Cedeno, and kept the Astros in check except for his second-inning error.

Cruz' second-inning infield single bounced high to Reuschel's right side. The Cubs' pitcher had to wait for the ball to come down and then threw wild to first base, putting Cruz in scoring position.

Cincinnati exploded for five runs on seven hits in the opening inning and trounced St. Louis with the aid of George Foster's 11th home run of the season. St. Louis right-hander Lynn McGlothen, 34, was the victim of an early barrage ignited by Ken Griffey's one-out triple.

Jerry Reuss pitched a four-hitter and slump-ridden Richie

Hehn drove in two runs to lead Pittsburgh over San Diego. The Pirates took a 4-0 lead in the second inning off Padre starter, Dave Freeseleben, who suffered his first loss after a pair of shutout victories last week over Los Angeles and San Francisco.

San Francisco hammered six extra base hits off Jim Lonborg and snapped the 10-game winning streak of the Philadelphia right-hander. Lonborg, 31, this season, was battered for six hits and four runs in the first inning, while dropping his first game since June 30, 1975.

Rangers Smear Tigers

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — The Detroit Tigers gave up eight runs in a disastrous fourth inning and wound up with a dismal 14-3 loss Friday night against the Texas Rangers.

The Rangers bombed loser Billy Lutton for four runs in the bottom of the second inning. In the disastrous fourth, they erupted with seven hits off Lutton and relievers Steve Grilli and Jim Crawford.

The game turned into a fine debut for Danny Thompson, who got four hits and a three-run homer.

"I'm just tickled to death," bubbled Thompson, newly acquired from the Minnesota Twins.

Virtually overlooked in the trade that brought him to Texas with heralded pitcher Bert Blyleven, a grinning Thompson said:

"I told Bert I hated to put that much pressure on him. It's a tough act to follow. But he can do it."

Blyleven launches his career tonight, facing Mark Fidrych. Blyleven comes to Texas with a 4-5 record. Fidrych is 2-1.

Thompson said he was nervous before taking the field at second base against the Tigers, but the jitters vanished with a clean first inning single in his first at bat as a Ranger. In the second inning, he cracked the homer, then followed with a double and a single.

He was 4-for-4 for the evening, driving in four runs, including one in the wild fourth.

"I really wanted to do well," he admitted. "The adrenalin was flowing."

No less delighted was Texas manager Frank Lucchesi, who said of Thompson's performance:

"Is there a better word than excellent? He was outstanding." Lucchesi said he cheered Thompson during batting practice and jokingly told him, "You'll break in right if you knock one out of here. Bingo, he did it."

Added Lucchesi:

"It really was a great way to break in here. He was in a good frame of mind when he joined us and he's in a better frame of mind now."

Thompson said he reluctantly left the game after the fifth inning with a recurring muscle spasm problem, but he dismissed the ailment as minor.

Burgmeier, Hisle Spark Comeback

White Sox Down Cleveland

From Associated Press

It would have been easy to go through the motions. The Minnesota Twins were trailing 6-0 in the second inning of a game that appeared to be a Baltimore runaway.

With the score as lopsided as it was, Twins Manager Gene Mauch slipped relief pitcher Tom Burgmeier into the lineup during the second inning. Suddenly Burgmeier, who hadn't pitched much, and Larry Hisle, who hadn't hit much, came alive. Burgmeier worked 2 2/3 innings of six-hit shutout relief and Hisle hit for the cycle. A 6-0 slaughter had become a 6-6, extra-inning tie when Hisle strode to the plate in the 10th inning.

He'd been hitting second in the order most of this season, collecting seven sacrifice bunts along the way. "I thought maybe I'd get another one," he said after Butch Wynegar slapped a leadoff single in the 10th.

But Mike Flanagan's pitch was too good to be true, and Hisle—who had doubled and scored in the fourth, tripled home two runs in the fifth, and singled in the eighth—knocked the delivery into orbit.

Hisle didn't want credit for the 8-6 triumph Friday night. "I thought Burgmeier was by far the star of the game," he said.

In the other American League games, California trimmed Boston 5-4 in 10 innings, Oakland nipped New York 6-4 in 11 innings, Kansas City edged Milwaukee 4-3 in 10 innings, Chicago clipped Cleveland 4-1 and Texas bombed Detroit 14-3.

Bill Melton's 10th-inning single drove in pinch-runner Rusty Torres with an unearned tally to lift California past Boston, which produced 14 hits in a losing effort.

Ron Jackson hit his first career major league home run to help the Angels, while Dwight Evans hit one for the Red Sox.

Ken McMullen scored Bert Campaneris with a pinch single in the 11th inning to give Oakland its overtime triumph over New York. Sal Bando's sacrifice fly produced the insurance run.

Claudell Washington's second-inning home run had given the A's a 2-0 lead; the Yankees came back with three in the third—a lead they couldn't hold.

John Mayberry, awarded first base when hit by a Jim Staton pitch, scored on Hal McRae's 10th-inning double to give Kansas City's Dennis Leonard his fifth victory in six decisions.

The Royals' Amos Otis clubbed his 10th home run of the season in the fifth inning, taking over the AL lead in that department.

Jorge Orta drove in two runs with a triple and a double. Ralph Garr had three hits and Pat Kelly stole two bases and scored twice to lead Chicago past Cleveland—the White Sox' 13th triumph in 17 games.

Danny Thompson, acquired last Tuesday from Minnesota, cracked four hits including a three-run homer to pace the Texas rout of Detroit.

Thompson had two singles in an eight-run Rangers fourth inning.

Jorge Orta drove in two runs with a triple and a double. Ralph Garr lashed out three hits and Pat Kelly stole two bases and scored twice, leading the Chicago White Sox to victory.

The trio had a hand in all the scoring as the Sox struck for two runs in the first inning and two in the fifth with Rich Gossage picking up his third straight triumph and boosting his record to 4-3.

Dennis Eckersley, 3-4, was the victim as the Sox posted their 13th victory in 17 games.

Orta's two hits gave him 10 on his last 20 at bats. He doubled Garr home in the first inning and then drove in Garr with a triple in the fifth.

Kelly walked and stole second in the first inning and scored the game's first run. He singled, stole second and scored on a single by Garr in the fifth.

Gossage scattered nine hits and hurled his sixth complete game of the season. He lost his bid for a shutout in the fifth when Frank Duffy doubled and scored on a pair of infield singles.

Four Local Stars Final Award Picks

Competing For Top Athlete

Henry Follman of St. Joseph, Bernie Bowers of Benton Harbor, George Welch of Lake Michigan Catholic and John Gerencser of Michigan Lutheran are the four nominees for the Twin Cities who will be competing for the 27th annual Berrien County Sportswriters Award.

The four, the final nominees, are among 16 Berrien county senior athletes nominated for the trophy, which will be presented Monday at an awards banquet at Tosi's Restaurant.

The trophy, sponsored by the Herald-Palladium, is given to the county's top senior athlete.

Follman, who won seven letters, has carved a brilliant track record. He has made the all-time track honor roll in both the 880 dash and as a member of the Bear mile relay unit. Follman holds the top spot this spring in both the 880 and mile. He won the Class A regional 880 run and the Big Seven meet mile while also repeating his 880 win in the Rotary Meet this week.

He also averaged 12.6 points during the regular season in basketball while helping the Bears win their first outright league championship in 16 years. He was named to the all-conference basketball team this winter.

Follman, who also keyed St. Joseph to second place in the state finals in cross country during his junior year, has been accepted at Utah State.

Bowers was a member of the Lake Michigan Athletic Conference (LMAC) all-conference basketball team last winter. He ended with a regular season average of 15.1 and was the league's fifth leading scorer at 16.6.

Bowers, a defensive lineman, also received honorable mention on the LMAC all-star football team last fall. Bowers, senior class president, will attend the University of Arkansas.

Welch, a top passer, gained Red Arrow honors at quarterback for two straight years while also winning the school's valuable player award.

He was also a member of the league basketball championship squad this winter and captured the Lakers' best defensive award for the second consecutive year.

Welch, who ended with eight letters, also was named to the all-league baseball team for two years in a row.

He has a football scholarship to the University of Wisconsin. Gerencser took seven letters in football, basketball and track. He served as class representative for four years. He is undecided about his college plans.

Lions Sign Top Picks

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions said Friday they've signed two of their top draft choices for the 1976 National Football League season.

Lawrence Gaines, a fullback from the University of Wyoming, and John Woodcock, a defensive tackle from the University of Hawaii, signed contracts, the Lions said.

"We're delighted to have these two players signed," said General Manager Russ Thomas. "Both of them are going to help us this year."

The 6-foot-1, 240-pound Gaines was the Lions' second pick in the first round of the 1976 college draft. Gaines gained 884 yards and averaged 5.6 on each rush last year for the Broncos.

Woodcock was drafted in the third round. The 6-foot-3, 240-pound lineman led his team in all defensive statistics in each of the last two years.

The Lions have signed 10 of their 19 draft choices under contract.

Chi Chi Regaining Form

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Chi Chi Rodriguez revived his career with a recent putting lesson from Hubert Green.

"I've been playing so bad for so long, the last seven or eight months I've been thinking about quitting the tour," said the little clown, now a graying, 40-year-old veteran of the pro golf tour.

"I've made $20,000 in the last two years and spent $80,000," the skinny, 125-pound Puerto Rican said Friday.

"I hadn't broken 70 since the Crosby (four months ago) this year. Then I got a putting lesson from Hubert (a three-time winner and the season's leading money-winner) and a playing lesson from (old pro) Herman Keiser.

"Hubert came down and caddied for me for nine holes. He gave me a putting tip. I'm not going to tell you what it is because you'd put it in the paper and all the rest of the pros would read it and I don't want them to find out what it is.

"But I've broken 70 in every round I've played this week."

Chi Chi, who acquired the last of his seven tour titles in 1973, used that new putting knowledge to put together rounds of 69 and 68 for a 137 total that left him just one shot back of pace-setting—but admittedly nervous—rookie Tom Purtzer going into today's third round in the $200,000 Bicentennial Golf Classic.

Purtzer, who holed six putts of 15 feet or more in his first round, didn't make anything longer than eight feet in his round of par 71 Friday on the 6,687-yard Whitmarsh Valley Country Club course and three-putted twice.

Tied with Rodriguez for second, just one shot out, were rookie Jerry Pate and chipper Jerry McGee, both of whom had strong performances last week in the Memorial Tournament.

McGee and Pate each had a four-under-par 67, the best score of the mild, sunny, windy second round.

Masters champion Ray Floyd missed nine greens and had to work hard for a 71 that left him two shots back and tied at 138 with Lyn Lott. Lott also had a 67.

Chi Chi, for more than a decade one of the game's most popular figures, used his Hubert Green putting lesson to best advantage. Rodriguez one-putted nine times, once saved par with a 15-footer and closed out a string of three consecutive birdies late in the day with a 25-footer.

Green, however, could do no better than a 70 and was well back at 144.

Purtzer holed birdie putts of four and eight feet going out, once had a four-stroke lead and appeared ready to make a rout of it until his nerves began to give coming home. He bogeyed twice, each time missing a second putt of about two feet.

Pate, a former amateur champion, moved into contention with a late string of three consecutive birdies while McGee put his share of second with a 12-foot birdie putt on the 17th hole.

Foyt Says Indy Scene Seemed Like Nightmare

COLLEGE STATION, Tex.

(AP) — A.J. Foyt, holding court for the first time since losing the rain-soaked, disputed Indianapolis 500 to fellow Texan Johnny Rutherford last Sunday, says he's just glad the month of May is finally over, regardless of the outcome of the race.

Foyt, humorous, feisty, talkative like he usually is away from Indianapolis where he is generally cold, impatient and short tempered, said the Indianapolis 500 this year was about to drive him crazy before the whole thing was over.

"Any longer and I would have sent myself to a psychiatrist," Foyt explained in a lively interview as he prepared for Sunday's Texas 500 stock car race at Texas World Speedway. "The problems in qualifying, in practice, the Janet Guthrie thing, the pressure—all month seemed like a nightmare.

"Then the race gets rained out again. I'll tell you, it was maddening."

Foyt, 42, who says he entertains no notions of retiring, feels nothing much was decided in the race, which ended after only 255 miles. Foyt still believes Rutherford illegally made up at least nine seconds on him during a caution period, but he is most upset that officials refused to restart the race after the initial rainstorm "although they obviously could have."

"Everybody knows they were stalling. Anybody else would have gotten the whole show in, or at least most of it. There was at least 45 minutes more we

The Wings said General Manager Alex Delvecchio will meet with Eagleson Monday in Montreal, when the NHL holds its annual June meeting.

Eagleson also is the attorney for Fred "Fats" Williams, Detroit's top amateur draft choice this spring.

Care Will Speed Dad's Gift

Two Cities postmasters are reminding mail users to address Fathers' Day mail correctly in order to assure prompt and accurate delivery. Special holidays represent increased use of the postal service and Benton Harbor Postmaster Robert Brown and St. Joseph Postmaster Robert McMullen said they hoped the mailing public will do as good a job addressing June 20 Fathers' Day mail as they did for Mothers' Day mail this year.

The two postmasters reported post offices in major cities in the 13-state Midwest region had 31 per cent fewer undeliverable cards and gifts on Mothers' Day this year than the estimated 26,000 in the previous year. To assure delivery, the two postmasters recommended the following: Always include return address. Check accuracy of the address, especially if you are not familiar with it. Do not write the word "City" as a shortcut for the actual city name. Be sure you include the right zip code and proper postage. For packages, put Dad's name and address and your own return address inside the package as well as outside.

Going Back Today In History

Today is Saturday, June 5, the 157th day of 1976. There are 209 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1940, the World War Two Battle of France began.

On this date:

In 1872, a Republican national convention in Philadelphia nominated Gen. Ulysses S. Grant for President.

In 1876, visitors to the U.S. Centennial exposition in Philadelphia got their first taste of bananas, which had rarely before been seen in the United States.

In 1917, more than nine million American men registered for the World War One draft.

In 1947, Secretary of State George Marshall, speaking at Harvard University, outlined a program for Europe's economic recovery which became known as the Marshall Plan.

In 1961, the U.S. Supreme Court gave its backing to an order that the Communist Party must register with the Justice Department.

In 1962, Richard Nixon won a Republican primary election in California and became the party nominee for governor of the state.

Ten years ago: Astronaut Eugene Cernan took man's longest walk in space: two hours.

Five years ago: A cholera epidemic reached Calcutta, India, along with thousands of refugees from East Pakistan.

One year ago: The Suez Canal reopened to international shipping for the first time since the Arab-Israeli war of 1967.

Today's birthdays: French Existentialist philosopher Jean-Paul Sartre is 71 years old. Former White House news secretary and publisher Bill Moyers is 42.

Thought for today: There is no surprise more magical than the surprise of being loved — British novelist Charles Morgan, 1894-1958.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, recurring accounts of the utterly disorganized and ineffectual battle campaign in Canada caused Congress to require monthly status reports from all non-combat or supply departments of the Army.

WAITING: Mrs. Bernice Green, of Parchment, Mich., says she's been waiting nine months to learn results of autopsy on her husband, Joseph, who died last August at Veterans Administration hospital, Ann Arbor. Nuclear Alert Continues

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The security alert ordered at the nation's nuclear power plants will remain in effect until after California voters have cast ballots Tuesday in a state referendum on atomic power, a federal agency says.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission, which had not fully explained the alert before, said Friday that it ordered stepped up security because of information that "intrusions might be attempted" at some plants.

The commission, which called the alert May 27, released the message it sent to the nation's 48 nuclear plants.

"We have obtained information, not fully verified, from the intelligence community that two groups have plans to take over or occupy one or more nuclear plants on Memorial Day Weekend or to take other actions in early June," the message said.

"Incidents have occurred at two other utility facilities during the past week that may have security implications. So far, the incidents have been sealed with no consequences," it said.

The commission also released a statement saying the information about possible intrusions came from utilities and other federal agencies.

"Information received in May included threatened activities in Illinois (over the Memorial Day weekend), Washington and California (with the California activity to take place before the June 8 referendum vote on a nuclear proposition.)"

"Also during May, there were reports of persons, under suspicious circumstances, in the vicinity of two power plants in Connecticut (one nuclear, one fossil-fueled)," the commission said.

The commission said that since it came into being in January 1975 it had twice previously dispatched threat information to nuclear plants.

Ford: I Told You So

By JONATHAN WOLMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says he warned the House five years ago not to grant control over staff salaries to Wayne Hays' administration committee, but Majority Leader Thomas O'Neill says Ford was wrong then, wrong now, and "just taking a cheap political shot."

With the congressional payroll-sex scandal spilling into the political arena, Speaker of the House Carl Albert appointed a task force of three Democrats to study misuse of public funds by members of Congress.

One of the Democrats, Rep. Lloyd Meeks, when asked if it wouldn't be a good idea to have Republicans on the task force, replied bluntly, "How many Republicans have come under scrutiny so far?"

Only Hays, the Ohio Democrat, is under scrutiny for the payroll-sex charges. And Friday, the Justice Department entered a suit against Democratic Rep. William Clay of Missouri, to recover travel expenses for trips he allegedly never took.

In New York, attorney Seymour Feig said the Star, a national weekly newspaper, has bought world serial rights to the book, "Washington Fringe Benefits," written by his client, 33-year-old Elizabeth Ray.

Miss Ray says Hays kept her on the House Administration Committee payroll in a $14,000-a-year post as his mistress.

Hays continued to withstand pressure by colleagues who want him to quit chairman of that committee, although Albert said Friday he thinks Hays will agree to step down next week.

In a television interview, President Ford said Friday that as minority leader, he warned in 1971 that if the chamber as a whole relinquished authority over staff salaries to Hays' committee, the House would regain that authority only if there were a scandal.

Three Steel Producers Hike Prices

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Three major steel producers have announced identical 8 per cent increases on the price of basic structural steel, from $231 per ton to $249.
Structural steel is used primarily in the construction industry, which has been slow to recover from the recession.
U.S. Steel, Armco and Jones & Laughlin Steel corporations all announced the increases Friday, to take effect July 10.
J&L is also raising prices on one class of structural beams, used primarily in mobile homes by $30 per ton in two steps, beginning on June 14, from $236 per ton to $266 per ton.
U.S. Steel broadened its hike in construction rod and wire are primarily used in industrial areas, and the double submerged weld pipe runs into such things as petroleum pipelines.

Clark Wants Packer To Pay For Injury

BUCHANAN — A vice president and general counsel for Clark Equipment Friday said the company will attempt to recover a $154,100 judgment awarded to an Illinois man for a crushed finger sustained while driving a Clark forklift.
Richard McCormack, of Clark's legal department in Buchanan, said Clark will attempt to recover the sum from the owner of Vegetable Packing House, Inc., of Norridge, Ill., under a contract which holds Clark harmless for injuries employees sustain while operating equipment leased from Clark.

A Cook county Circuit court jury in March made the $154,100 award to Lazaro Mata, an employee of the packing house, whose finger was amputated after being crushed by the forks of a lift truck.
McCormack said Mata had removed the protective overhead guard from the lift truck while loading 100-pound bags of walnuts into a truck and one bag slipped. The bag became stuck near the steering wheel, at the same time activating a lever which lowers the forks. McCormack said, and while attempting to disengage the bag, Mata lost his balance and fell, with the forks descending onto Mata's fingers.
McCormack stressed the accident did not result from a defect in the lift truck and probably would not have occurred had the protective cover not been removed.

Ball Firm Wins Space Test Work

MUNCIE, Ind. — Ball Corp. has announced that its wholly-owned subsidiary in Boulder, Colo., Ball Brothers Research Corporation, has been awarded a $3 million contract to design and build a Corograph/Polarimeter for space flight science use.
The instrument will fly in space as part of the Solar Maximum Mission near the end of this decade when solar activity is at its peak. NASA, the Solar Maximum Mission, is planning to fly a number of scientific instruments to observe the sun and solar corona during peak solar activity which occurs in 11-year cycles.
The Corograph/Polarimeter will provide images of the solar corona over a one-year flight mission. Its objectives are to observe the long-term features of the corona and to obtain rapid images of transient events.
Ball Brothers Research Corporation, founded in 1956, is currently engaged in a number of space science activities, including acting as prime contractor for the P78-1 satellite to observe both the earth and sun. It is to be launched in 1978 by the U.S. Air Force. The contract was awarded BBRC in February for $10.3 million.

Court Upholds Cass Conviction

LANSING — The state court of appeals has upheld the Cass county murder conviction of Norman F. Crowder who was sentenced to life in prison for the 1974 slaying of a Jones man.

In a ruling announced this week, the appeals court rejected Crowder's contention that his plea of guilty to second degree murder was not made voluntarily because he was under too much emotional stress.

In his appeal, Crowder had claimed that the emotional stress had resulted from his being harassed by a fellow prisoner in the Cass county jail. The appeals court commented Circuit court Judge James Hoff for his actions during the proceedings against Crowder.

Judge Hoff had offered to have Crowder transferred to the Berrien county jail, but the offer had been rejected by Crowder, according to court records.

Crowder, 28, of Battle Creek, was charged with the murder of Harry Kindig Jr., who died of wounds suffered when he was beaten with a hammer. According to police, the man had been assaulted and robbed by two hitchhikers he picked up near Niles in December, 1974.

A second man, Lawrence AM Marcotte, 18, of Leland, N.I., was sentenced by Judge Hoff to a prison sentence of three to 10 years after he pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny from a person.

Travelers Checks Lookout Sounded

Twin Cities area merchants were alerted Friday to watch for anyone attempting to cash all or part of $400 in travelers checks reported stolen Thursday afternoon. Benton Harbor police Lt. Harry Lenardson said the checks were purchased Thursday at Inter-City bank and asked merchants to notify police if anyone attempted to cash them. Lenardson said the travelers checks were made out in the name of Dan C. Woods, 436 Fair avenue, apartment 1, who reported they were stolen from his apartment.

58 Cents More A Month

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Detroit Edison's residential customers will pay an average of 58 cents more for electricity this month so the company can recover money it spent buying power from other utilities. The state Public Service Commission approved the extra charges after a hearing held to determine whether Edison actually incurred the expenses it claimed. Under PSC rules, 90 per cent of the expenses for purchased power can be recovered after monthly hearings to verify the costs.

FOR CARL ALBERT, Speaker of the House
I can understand borrowing the Magna Carta, but how can you justify the boondoggle trip to England by 25 Senators and Representatives, their wives and staff, headed by you, at a taxpayers' cost of $100,000?—J. La Zizza, New Milford, N.J.

● The invitation for 25 Congressmen and Senators to take part in the London ceremonies commemorating the loan of an original copy of the Magna Carta to America came from the Lord Chancellor and the Speaker of the House of Commons. It was not initiated by the Congress. I feel it would have been an insult to the British people not to participate in this historic ceremony. The cost of the London visit is estimated to be $30,000, not $100,000. I might point out the British are spending more than $1 million to celebrate our Bicentennial.

FOR OLIVIA NEWTON-JOHN

Of all the countries you've lived in, which do you like best?—Roger Mead, Delmar, N.Y.

● This one. I'm guided by the place I live, and I love where I live—on the beach in California. The people who make up our community are marvelous, a combination of young singles and young marrieds. Our homes are far enough apart to give us privacy but close enough for friendship and comfort. My immediate neighbors are a bunch of kids my age. I'm so happy here that I'm considering becoming a citizen.

FOR PHYLLIS GEORGE, sportscaster

Other than dropping your crown after winning the Miss America Pageant in 1971, what was your most embarrassing experience as Miss America?—Clifford Sampson, Lafayette, Calif.

● I believe it was when a man walked up and said, "You had such a beautiful voice, I can see how you won the title." I thanked him and didn't tell him I had played the piano—not sung—for my talent in the Miss America competition.

FOR JOE NAMATH

How do you cope with the idea of having a disappointing season after spending months of preparation?—Tom Cahill, Wilmington, Del.

● When you choose a career in professional sports, it requires both physical and mental conditioning. Just as players have to learn to play with pain, they must also learn to adjust to the misfortunes of a bad season. The only good thing about losing is that you have only one way to go—up!

FOR JOHNNY BENCH

Who was your baseball idol as a kid?—Janet Shaner, Council Bluffs, Iowa

● Mickey Mantle—a great player!

FOR HAL LINDEN, TV's "Barney Miller"

Did your parents want you to become an actor?—R.C., Washington, D.C.

● No they didn't. In fact, they're still waiting for me to make up my mind about what I want to be when I grow up.

FOR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Is it true that in a few years you plan to become active politically? If so, why?—R.C., Asbury, N.J.

● As a psychologist I see so many things that need fixing. I feel I've done as much as I can in my own profession. Now I want to try to work in a situation where I can have some effect on where our country is going. Most Congressmen are lawyers. They're not psychologists or psychiatrists, who understand the needs of people. So I feel I have a great deal to contribute because I know what people need and want.

FOR EDITH HEAD, costume designer

I know your hairstyle and glasses are your trademark, but don't you ever feel the urge to try other hairdos and contact lenses?—Mrs. Joy Allard, San Antonio, Tex.

● I've tried many other coifs and, since I work at a studio, have experimented with different wigs. The results were pretty frightening! I feel very comfortable in my "trademark" glasses, but one of these days I think I will give contact lenses a try.

FOR TOM LANDRY, coach of the Dallas Cowboys

Sportswriters call you "the coach who believes in miracles." Do you believe in "miracles" in daily life, too?—Joel Allard, San Antonio, Tex.

● I do believe in miracles in daily life. And the reason is that I believe all things are possible with God. My faith tells us that if we pray and believe, then we will be able "to move mountains"—and I believe that.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I always liked Betty Hutton and was shocked by news of her breakdown and her job as kitchen helper at a Rhode Island rectory. Are things looking up yet?—L.V., Jackson, Mich.

● Yes. She left the rectory last August, and now Betty, 54, is on the West Coast working on her autobiography, for which she's said to be getting a $50,000 advance. It'll come in handy. She was practically broke. Until 12 years ago she made as much as $150,000 a week, and she estimates she went through $9.5 million as a movie star. In the book, Betty (five times unhappily married; mother of three girls) will say her breakdown started with pills—pain killers to help dull the injuries she incurred making "The Greatest Show on Earth" movie. Last July, Earl Wilson arranged a benefit party for her, and the overflow audience of entertainers and VIPs convinced her she wasn't forgotten.

Has Women's Lib Gone Too Far—Or Not Far Enough?

Seven Prominent Political-Minded Women Give Their Answers

Five years after Women's Lib became a household phrase, FAMILY WEEKLY's editors decided to find out how some of America's outstanding women feel about The Movement's progress.

We asked seven politically oriented women these three questions:

- 1) Have women gone too far, or not far enough, in pressing for their rights?
- 2) How do you feel about the status of women today, and what would you like to see happen?
- 3) How has Women's Lib influenced your own life and marital status?

This is what they said:

REPRESENTATIVE MILLICENT FENWICK (R.-N.J.)

Rep. Fenwick is the complete liberated woman. She even smokes a pipe. In Congress, she works on two committees, one of which is the Small Business Committee.

Women have had a reaction recently against Women's Lib—it's something like Future Shock. They aren't sure what will happen and feel it's too big a change to handle. Many are now jumping back to the security of being cared for and protected by a man.

But it's too late for that. In divorce cases, the courts are already acting as if men and women are equal, and they're not giving alimony—or much alimony—if the woman has a good job.

"We have come a long way, but we have a long way to go—and part of that distance is within our own minds."—Betty Ford

I'm not a 100-percent 'gung-ho' liber because I don't like women being made to feel that if they don't have a job outside the home, they are some kind of second-class citizen. But I still want to see the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) passed—if only to give women an equal break. Let me give you an example. If a working woman and her husband both retire and the husband is getting Social Security, the wife cannot get full benefits unless she divorces him. This means older couples have to divorce each other in order to get the payments of two singles to live on!

The ERA lost heavily last November in two states—New York and New Jersey. I think this was because people saw it as a threat to the family. Many women did not understand how ERA would affect child support, alimony, Social Security and insurance, and it was not made clear that ERA is concerned with all women—the professional, the industrial worker, the homemaker, the business woman, the household worker.

But it would be a mistake to take the setback too seriously. Equal rights for women are obviously going to come, sooner or later. All the discussion and emotion which accompany debates on the Equal Rights Amendment will seem strange in a few years.

LORI WILSON State Senator in Florida

Lori Wilson is part Cherokee and proud of it. She is the only woman in the 40-member State Senate and the first and only independent ever elected to any office in the state.

Women should win every historical award there is for patience. Almost 200 years after the birth of this nation, we still have more than half our population pressing for its rights. It is indeed a shame that to some, bra burnings and march-ins seemed necessary to get media and public attention. But during a long history of struggle, there may be controversial methods inspired by impatience.

I did not need to be "influenced" by Women's Lib. I was already liberated. I cut my teeth on the concept of liberty for all people. The question is simply one of equal treatment and equal opportunity for all people. It is part of my heritage, part of my soul. I have preached and practiced this philosophy with my own children—two daughters—and my stepson and stepdaughter. Fortunately, but not accidentally, my husband and I share the same general philosophy. Our individual basic right to be different and to achieve to the extent of our individual capabilities and motivations keeps us busy—but never bored!

AUTHOR PHYLLIS SCHLAFLY

Phyllis Schlafly is an opponent of the Equal Rights Amendment, which, she happily points out, was defeated in 16 states during 1975. She is also the author of seven books, the latest of which is "Kissinger on the Couch," and has a twice-weekly radio show.

There is a noisy minority of women today peddling the notion that women in America are "oppressed," that marriage is slavery and that the home is a prison from which women must be "liberated." But the plain fact is that most women would rather be loved than "liberated." They would rather cuddle a baby than a typewriter or a factory machine.

Women's Lib is waging a special war on Cinderella and other fairy tales which end with the heroine finding her Prince Charming and living "happily ever after." But what a tragedy to shatter a young woman's hopes and dreams by falsely telling her that "Prince Charming" doesn't exist. Of my own life, I can honestly say that no career achievement could ever match the rewards of a happy marriage, a faithful husband and six good children. The only influence Women's Lib has had on my life is to give me the fun of debating women's libbers and exposing their tunnel vision of life's challenges and opportunities.

Let me tell you where the American woman stands today. She is the most fortunate person who ever lived. She has more rights, more opportunities, more leisure, and more fulfillment than any human has ever had. State laws give her the right to be financially supported and provided with a home by her husband, to have her minor children supported by her husband, to get credit in her husband's name, to draw Social Security benefits based on her husband's earnings and to be provided for out of her husband's property after he has passed away. She has the right to enjoy her baby in her own home, instead of (as in some countries) being made to stay in the work force all her life. If she chooses a career, she has full and equal opportunity in hiring, pay and promotions guaranteed by the Equal Employment Opportunity Act of 1972. She has full and equal opportunity for every type of education guaranteed by the Education Amendments of 1972. She has full and equal opportunity for credit under the Equal Credit Opportunity Act of 1974. She can be elected or appointed to any position in the country.

"Most women would rather be loved than 'liberated.'"—Phyllis Schlafly

Yes, we've come a long way, baby, since women had to toil endless hours sewing and washing and ironing clothes, spinning yarn and in endless preparation and cooking of food. We've already been liberated. Thomas Edison, who gave us electricity, was our greatest liberator.

FIRST LADY BETTY FORD

First Lady Betty Ford has long been a spokesperson for both Women's Lib and the Equal Rights Amendment.

The debate over ERA has become too emotional, mostly because of fears about the changes already taking place in America. Change by its very nature is threatening. But it is also often productive. The fight of women to become more productive, accepted human beings is important to all people of either sex.

I hope 1976 will be the year the remaining needed states ratify the ERA Amendment. It would be an important symbolic event during our 200th birthday to show the American experiment in human freedom continues to expand. But it will only be a beginning. As I see it, it is not enough merely to change laws. We also have to change our attitudes. I have been distressed by the lack of appreciation of the role of women as wives and mothers. In trying to open up new choices and opportunities, women must not underestimate their accomplish-ishments in the home.

I've been lucky enough to have two careers. When I was young, I chose a career in dancing and loved every minute of it. I never thought there was anything else in the world that would turn me away from that career. But then I became a homemaker and reared four individual and delightful youngsters. I found that this career was equally challenging. Let's face it: being a homemaker is a profession—and we must look at it as such. We have to take that "just" out of "just a housewife" and show our pride in having made the home and family our life's work. Downgrading this work has been part of the pattern in our society that has undervalued women's talents in all areas.

What I'm saying is we have come a long way, but we have a long way to go—and part of that distance is within our own minds.

REPRESENTATIVE SHIRLEY CHISHOLM (D.-N.Y.)

Shirley Chisholm was the first black woman to be elected to Congress in 1968. For the past five years, she has been on the Gallup poll's list of the 10 Most Admired Women of the World.

A lot of people tell women, "You've come a long way, baby." But why is it that out of the 10,000 Civil Service employees in this country who make $26,000 or more a year, only some 200 are women? And why, as the Department of Labor has reported, do women who are full-time workers average only about 60 percent of what similarly employed men earn?

When I ran as a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1972, I was successful in opening up a national discussion on whether a woman could ever be President of the United States. Until that is no longer a subject for debate, the women's movement has not gone far enough!

I will not be satisfied until I see more women breathing the rarefied air that surrounds the business world, better pension benefits for working women, a national day-care program, an end to discrimination in vocational education—and until I look around the Congress and see that I am no longer some kind of oddity.

How has the women's movement influenced my personal life? It's something I don't go around shouting about, but I'll level with you. I'm the politician of the family. My husband, who's West Indian, is a gourmet cook who does all the cooking when I'm home. He enjoys it. I don't know what is right for you, but this is right for us.

GLORIA SCHAFFER Connecticut Secretary of State

In 1970 Gloria Schaffer won her office by getting the largest Democratic vote in her state. When she was re-elected in 1974, it was with the greatest vote for any state candidate—Republican or Democrat. This year Mrs. Schaffer is running for the U.S. Senate against Lowell Welcker.

I must admit to having been quite "unliberated" when I decided to run for State Senate for the first time in 1958. I went to my husband, Eugene, and asked, "Can I do it, and should I?"

He considered the fact that the district we live in was a Republican stronghold, that the last Democratic candidate had lost by an enormous margin, and that only one Democratic candidate for State Senate had ever been elected from our district in history.

He said, with an amused air, "Sure, why not?" He never expected that I'd win or that I'd serve a total of six terms.

I can't deny that my husband, a real-estate developer, is sometimes less than thrilled when I'm preoccupied with my work or when my professional schedule conflicts with our personal plans. But I think that the compromise this kind of life demands has given our marriage an added measure of mutual respect.

I don't view the ERA as a "for women only" issue. Its ratification would eliminate discrimination against men, too, such as inequitable Social Security benefits, pension laws and so forth.

But I want to see a change in women's attitudes. For example, women consistently vote less often than men. Studies suggest that men are more informed than women about ERA. But, when they try, women have shown they can win high office. In fact, the win-rate for women running for state legislative seats last year was a very healthy 50 percent!

I'll never forget the night just prior to the 1958 election when I attended a parents' night at my daughter Susan's school. She was 8 at the time. The children had been assigned to write short biographies of their parents, and they were posted on the bulletin board.

When I entered the schoolroom, all the parents started to laugh. They had read Susan's paper which said of me, "My mother is always running for something . . . I sure hope she catches it!"

AMBASSADOR LOUISE GORE

Louise Gore is the woman who challenged Gov. Marvin Mandel of Maryland in his bid for re-election in 1974. At the 1978 Republican Convention, she will be Maryland's Republican National Committee woman. For four years, she was U.S. Ambassador to UNESCO.

When I was elected to the Maryland House of Delegates back in 1962, I met with my newly elected colleagues to discuss which committees we would choose to serve on. Of the six of us—all male but me—I was the only one who asked for the Ways and Means Committee and was duly assigned. I was amazed and pleased. After all, where the money is, is where the power is!

But it wasn't long before the five men figured this out. They called me and politely suggested I give up the position to one of them. Well, you can imagine my answer. The air turned blue! Eventually, I waived and consented to take another committee assignment. Today, thanks to Women's Lib, no man would have the nerve to suggest that a woman could not handle the job. I still get furious when I remember that day, and I tell about it now to show that Women's Lib has made a difference.

The real trouble with Women's Liberation is men! Men are afraid Women's Lib will drive women from home. But that's a lot of hokum. If a man is upset by Women's Lib, ask him to tell you about his mother or grandmother. Suddenly he'll be glowing with pride as he tells you how capable she was and the many sacrifices she made. Then ask him if he wants the woman in his life to be different—to sit all day watching TV or playing bridge. It's amazing how fast a man will see the light!

Today women have laws guaranteeing them equality in employment, credit and pay. But the ERA would provide a Constitutional guarantee that these laws cannot be changed in the future. During World War II, for example, there was an equal pay provision, but after the war this provision was quietly retired.

We need to correct the oversight of history and make the "We" in "We the people" mean women no less than men. The ERA will take care of that.

MERIT!

'Enriched Flavor' process prompts unprecedented response to taste of new low tar MERIT.

Smokers are talking about a new kind of cigarette.

It's MERIT. The remarkable new low tar cigarette made with the 'Enriched Flavor' process.

MERIT has only 9 mg. tar. One of the lowest tar levels in smoking today. Yet, taste tests proved that MERIT delivers as much—or more—flavor than cigarettes having up to 60% more tar.

If you smoke, you'll be interested in what people like yourself are writing to us about MERIT.

"Are you sure Merit is a low tar cigarette? It is the best I've ever smoked. It has all those good things other cigarettes promise."

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

The Strange, Subtle Power of Time

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. People who have time on their hands—the leisure to do the things they want to do—are the luckiest people of all.
2. How liberal or how conservative you are when you vote is likely to depend on whether you're in a hurry or have plenty of time in the voting booth.
3. How well you remember something depends on what time it is.
4. For some people, time proceeds at a snail's pace; for others, time flies swiftly. You can tell which person is which by the way he walks.
5. Noise affects the speed of your internal clock.
6. The closest time ever comes to "standing still" is when we are gripped by some strong emotion, such as fear, anger, joy, etc.

ANSWERS

1. False. In a survey conducted by the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research, men and women were asked, "In general, how do you feel about your time—would you say you always feel rushed even to do the things you have to do; only sometimes feel rushed; almost never feel rushed?" Those who did not report always feeling rushed were asked if they had time on their hands—"quite often, just now and then or almost never"—that they didn't know what to do with. It was found that having a relative abundance of free time actually had somewhat of a negative effect on the individual's satisfaction with his spare time. The point of greatest satisfaction seemed to occur somewhere between the extremes of having plenty of time and not having nearly enough of it. But it was found that the people who were always rushed were much less dissatisfied with their life generally than those who were under no time pressure.
2. True. In University of Tulsa studies, college students voted their conscience on actual pending legislation in their state. To test whether time limits in the voting booth would affect the voting pattern, the students voted either (a) in a 2-minute limit or (b) in a non-restrictive time-limit condition. Results: those who had to hurry their decisions voted significantly more conservatively than those who took their time.

True or False? How liberal or conservative you are when you vote is likely to depend on whether you're in a hurry or have plenty of time in the voting booth. (See number 2.)

3. True—according to psychological studies at Britain's University of Sussex, which showed that the efficiency of a person's memory varies with the time of day and that "performance of subjects tested was better in the morning than in the afternoon." And previous research is cited showing that mental vigor and receptivity tend to lessen in the later hours of the day.
4. True. University studies have indicated that individuals with a faster gait tend to overestimate an interval of time. ("You mean it isn't noon yet? Did somebody forget to wind the clock?") While those with a slower gait tend to underestimate time. ("I just don't know where the time went. It can't be 12 o'clock already!")
5. True. Studies of subjects working under noisy conditions have shown that noise accelerates the rate of metabolism, resulting in a faster running internal clock. This makes actual clock time appear to pass much slower than it otherwise would. The noisier your surroundings, the faster will run your internal clock and the more the clock-on-the-wall time will seem to drag.
6. False. Time is more likely to "stand still" when we're lost in thought. ("I was so preoccupied with my thoughts that I lost all sense of time—it was almost as though it didn't exist.") As studies have shown, thinking entails a far greater sense of timelessness than feeling.

"I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the Office of President of the United States, and will to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

In two centuries, only thirty-seven Americans have been called upon to take this solemn oath — the Presidential Oath of America.

Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln . . . names that resound like thunder throughout our history. Men whose actions and words have shaped the destiny of America — the Presidents of the United States.

Historic U.S. stamps — officially postmarked throughout America

Each of the thirty-seven American Presidents will be honored in this important collection of Presidential Commemorative Covers.

Each cover will be officially postmarked on the birthdate . . . at the birthplace . . . of the President honored by the cover. These postmarks guarantee that these covers can never be reissued.

Moreover, each cover will bear historic U.S. stamps associated with each President, or some historic event during his term, or honoring the Presidency itself.

Many of the stamps to be used in this series are quite old and are difficult to obtain in any great quantity. It has only been through a very selective process that we have been able to accumulate the historic stamps necessary to make this series a reality.

The combination of historic stamps . . . official postmarks . . . on limited edition covers insures that the Presidential Commemorative Covers collection will be a unique family heirloom . . . to be enjoyed now and treasured by future generations in your family.

Custom designed collectors album

Subscribers to the Presidential Commemorative Covers program will also receive, at no extra cost, a handsome collectors album to house and display the entire collection.

Complete with descriptive display pages which provide fascinating insights into the inspirational life story of each President, this luxurious album will provide a magnificent and educational showcase for your Presidential Commemorative Covers.

Convenient acquisition plan . . . no advance payment required

Subscribers will receive their Presidential Commemorative Covers at the rate of three per month.

The price will be just $3.50 per cover and this includes the elegant steel-engraved cachet with historic stamps — as well as the handsome collectors album with descriptive display pages.

No advance payment is required at this time; subscribers will be billed prior to each monthly shipment.

To subscribe, simply provide the information requested on the subscription application below.

Subscription deadline is June 30, 1976

William Holden

"The way I play a love scene on screen doesn't necessarily coincide with what I do in real life. I resent this curiosity, all this staring and panting. I think it's ridiculous."

By Patricia Baum

Few men are able to realize their dreams as fully as William Holden, now 58. For more than 30 years he's been a top motion-picture star, appearing most recently in "The Towering Inferno" and the soon-to-be released "Network." He's been involved in many parts of the world—especially Africa, where he helped set up the Mount Kenya Safari Club and a conservation ranch. I talked to Bill Holden recently in New York; just as he was about to take off for some digging and diving in Yucatán, Mexico. He was brimming with energy and enthusiasm. And, in view of the fact that he has rarely ever given interviews, I was surprised by his candor and openness.

FAMILY WEEKLY: Why, with so much success as an actor, did you begin seeking other outlets?

HOLDEN: Acting has never been totally fulfilling for me. I come to work, I'm presented with a false situation, and I'm asked to use false emotions and react in ways I normally wouldn't. I need to latch onto something that's real. By getting involved meaningfully in Africa or New Guinea or Hong Kong, I feel I'm really living.

FW: Have all your travels and projects changed you as a person?

HOLDEN: I think I've gradually come to appreciate more the simpler things in life. I enjoy reading and just talking with people. I like wide-open spaces, beautiful terrain, sunshine, clean air, wildlife. If someone had told me 25 years ago that I would sit in Africa at a water hole and watch cheetahs for hours without moving, I wouldn't have believed him. At that time, I needed a sailboat or Ferrari to make me feel good.

FW: When you moved your family to Switzerland in the 1950's, you were accused of dodging taxes and taking film work away from Americans. What was behind that move?

HOLDEN: First of all, I never gave up my citizenship here, so I always paid the taxes. Our whole country is based on the idea of freedom, so I felt I had the right to live where I wanted. I really moved my family mainly because I wanted my two sons to be bilingual and to become familiar with other cultures.

FW: How has this helped them?

HOLDEN: Well, Scott has been working for a construction company in Iran. He's able to communicate with Germans, Italians and the French.

William Holden, the screen's "Golden Boy," who prefers trekking to acting.

FW: Are your sons interested in acting?

HOLDEN: Both Scott and West (Peter Wesley) have tried it. Scott made some Westerns in Italy and had a small part in a film I did a few years ago called "The Revengers." And West has been doing some theater in Chicago, where he lives. But I don't know if either of them will pursue it as a career.

FW: Why?

HOLDEN: They never realized how demanding acting is and how hard it can be to get parts. They just thought you get up and act and have the world at your feet. I used to bring them along with me on location. I'd get up for work at 5:30, then they'd arrive at 11, watch the gunfight and the buildings burning, and go back to the hotel at 4 p.m. I worked on until 6:30. When Scott suddenly had to put in long days for "The Revengers," he started complaining that he was tired and disliked the Mexican food. Then he had to face a period of about six months with no income while he waited for another script to come along.

FW: For many years your marriage to Brenda Marshall was considered one of Hollywood's happiest and most stable. What led to your divorce?

HOLDEN: We just gradually grew apart. My interests lay mainly in Africa,

★Star Chat★ Holden

Holden and actress Stephanie Powers:
They're very compatible.

Pictorial Parade

the Far East and acting, while hers were elsewhere. She was a film actress when we married but gave it up when our sons were born because she didn't feel she could combine a career with motherhood. She wanted to stay in familiar surroundings with people she knew. I couldn't blame her. But by the time the children were grown, we had little to share and were no longer compatible.

FW: Do you think you would ever consider marrying again?

HOLDEN: I doubt it. I think I lived up to the responsibility of marriage at the time. I provided for my family and did nothing that I'm guilty or ashamed of. But since then, I haven't felt the urge or necessity to marry, and I don't think marriage would fit my way of life.

FW: What's the alternative?

HOLDEN: Fortunately, I've found a very compatible human being in Stephanie Powers. She's as curious as I am about things. She's also very attractive, bright, well-coordinated and absolutely fearless. Last year when I asked her if she wanted to join me on my New Guinea trip, I warned her how rough it would be. And she said, "Great! Great!" So we trekked around together and saw some really primitive people. She took everything right in stride and never got exhausted.

FW: Over the years, you've done love scenes with some of Hollywood's most beautiful women. Do you find these scenes the most enjoyable?

HOLDEN: Actually I've found them very difficult. Because they deal with such a delicate and private matter, audiences tend to be more critical. They'll say, "Look at that jerk on the screen; I don't do it that way." So, if I'm not careful, I can easily offend people. Also, often the film crew makes these scenes tough. Fellows who normally would be busy working suddenly come out of the woodwork if they hear a love scene's being filmed. The way I look at it, we're just professionals doing a part. And the way I express myself on screen doesn't necessarily coincide with what I do in real life. So I resent this curiosity, all this staring and panting. I think it's ridiculous.

FW: What kinds of roles have been most difficult for you?

HOLDEN: Ones in which the character is not a very sympathetic one, like "Sunset Boulevard."

FW: But you got such critical acclaim for that role...

HOLDEN: I know, but it really stumped me. I knew I had to draw a very fine line. I had to be a gigolo to this Norma Desmond character [Gloria Swanson], yet I had to justify what I was doing for an audience. Finally, director Billy Wilder gave me the clue when he said, "Play the scene like you want that service station attendant in Des Moines, Iowa, to say, 'Boy, that's a tough situation to be in. But if I were in it, I'd do just what he did.'" So once I brought the role to that level, it clicked into place for me.

FW: Has your popularity had anything at all to do with sex appeal?

HOLDEN: Well, I've never really found myself to be particularly attractive. In fact, I'm really not my type! I'd rather look at somebody else. When I went to the premiere of my first major film, "Golden Boy," I thought that seeing my name in lights on the marquee and sitting in a crowd of approving people was the absolute end-all. But when I had finished seeing the film, I suddenly realized that's not where it's at. What really mattered was not other people's opinions but satisfying myself.

"I've never really found myself to be particularly attractive. In fact, I'm really not my type!"

FW: On what basis have you selected your roles?

HOLDEN: Frankly, I've often had very practical considerations in mind because I consider my film work as a means to pursuing my other interests. So I might take a picture that will give me the opportunity to be in a certain place at a certain time. Then, too, I've always looked for variety. I've never really felt I could step into a costume or wear a beard to do a period film like Charlton Heston. But I did Westerns, comedies, love stories. I tried to keep changing because, I guess, I didn't want anybody to know me well enough to be able to impersonate me.

FW: Any regrets about your career?

HOLDEN: I think in some of the films I did in the 60's I wasn't conscientious enough. I lost interest in the movies and compromised. What I should have done was just stop making movies altogether.

Smart Cooking
Day Before Payday

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes a moderately priced stew. Marilyn says, "I figure a smart cook can't have too many stew and casserole recipes. This one is an adaptation of cocido, a popular South American dish."

A Special Tangy Beef Stew

SOUTH AMERICAN BEEF AND VEGETABLE STEW

- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 2 lbs. boneless beef chuck, cut into 1-inch cubes
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 large clove garlic, crushed
- 2 1/4 cups water
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 1 bay leaf
- 2 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1 1/2 teaspoons ground cumin
- 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 4 cups celery, cut into 2-inch lengths
- 1 cup sliced carrots
- 1 teaspoon oregano leaves
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 4 ears fresh corn, cut in 3-inch chunks (or 1 pkg. [10 oz.] frozen cut corn)
- 3 medium-sized tomatoes

1. In 6-qt. Dutch oven, heat oil. Add beef, a few pieces at a time. Brown well on all sides; remove beef and set aside.

2. Stir onion and garlic into drippings in Dutch oven; sauté for 2 minutes. Add 2 cups water, 1 tablespoon vinegar, bay leaf, salt, cumin and black pepper. Cook and stir, scraping drippings from bottom of pan.

3. Return beef cubes to Dutch oven and heat to the boiling point; reduce heat, cover and simmer for 1 hour.

4. Add celery, carrots and oregano. Heat to boiling; reduce heat, cover and simmer for about 45 minutes.

5. Blend flour with 1/4 cup cold water and stir in a little of the hot liquid from Dutch oven. Add all to Dutch oven. Cook and stir until mixture boils and thickens.

6. Add corn chunks (or packaged corn) to stew. Cover and simmer for 5 minutes.

Robert Callender

South Americans eat this stew with the corn right on the cob. In our recipe you can "cheat" and use packaged corn.

7. Cut ripe tomatoes into wedges and add to Dutch oven. Cover and simmer for 5 minutes longer. Makes 6 servings

What's Smart: The U.S. Department of Agriculture says the average American will eat his way through 184 pounds of meat this year. Of this total, 67 percent will be beef. Beef prices have been declining since last year when the price of feed leveled off and farmers started bringing more cattle into the feed lots for fattening. This means consumers buying beef today are probably making a wise choice.

The First High Relief Presidential Medals in Miniature

The finest collection of presidential portraits ever created, the first high relief medallic miniatures ever achieved.

Limited Editions of Bronze, Silver and Gold

"Ladies and Gentlemen, The President of the United States"

Whether or not these words are accompanied by the stirring strains of "Hail to the Chief", they are enough to quicken the pulse of any American. The President is being introduced.

We will soon choose the President who will lead us into our 3rd century of independence. Who will he be? What mark will he make in history? What better time to reflect on the accomplishments of his predecessors than now with this rare and beautiful collection of Presidential Medals.

MEDALLIC ART IN MINIATURE

The late Ralph Menconi, legendary Sculptor of Presidents, had an uncanny ability to create incredibly lifelike portraits of his subjects. The deep ravines in Lincoln's face force you to share his grief for a nation torn by war. Teddy Roosevelt's enormous zest for living stands out in his robust cheeks. Eisenhower wears the easy smile that fostered the chant "We like Ike", and the countenance of Kennedy reflects the deep concern of our youngest President for America's future. In fact, each of Menconi's high relief medal portraits catches the character of its subject as no other Presidential sculpture ever has. So the latest medal in the series, of Gerald R.

Ford, was completed in Menconi's style by noted sculptor Rolf Beck. The reverse of each of these magnificently detailed medals carries a stylized rendition of The Great Presidential Seal.

EDITIONS OF LIMITLESS VALUE

This collection is being offered in strict limited editions of Solid Bronze, Sterling Silver and 18 Karat Gold. Jackie's Horoscope shows... super fame and fortune were her destiny!

by Barbara Walthers

An astrological research team was recently assembled in Los Angeles to study Jackie's life. They found that at the very minute of her birth, her horoscope predicted, the super-fame and super-fortune were her destiny!

Let's take a look at some of the actual facts revealed by Jackie's horoscope. Jackie's Sun is in Leo, indicating a ruling role in life — and in her adult life she became as close to a queen as an American could get — the First Lady of the land!

In her horoscope, Pluto 18° Cancer, predicts that the men in her life will be connected with the liquid elements. This prediction certainly came true. The late John F. Kennedy was an avid amateur sailor and in the Second World War he first gained national attention for his daring exploits as a P.T. boat captain. And Jackie's second husband, the late and fabulously wealthy Aristotle Onassis, built his legendary fortune by establishing a vast shipping empire.

The planetary aspect Sun-Satellite Jupiter in her horoscope shows that public service and publishing are major career interests. She won the Emmy Award for public service and has recently accepted an editorial position with a leading national publishing firm.

Jackie's rising sign is ascendant 28° Scorpio revealing that she loves travel and adventure. And her jet-setting life has been one of the world's most publicized adventures.

Jackie's 22° Gemini and Jupiter 10° Gemini in her horoscope indicate wealth in the house of partners — and both of Jackie's husbands have been wealthy.

One of the most telling predictions of all was the tragic day of John F. Kennedy's assassination. Transit Mars conjunct Transit Venus were opposite Venus in Jackie's chart indicating grave danger to her husband. Transit Pluto was conjunct to her Mars, a heavy aspect of a dangerous situation in public groups.

HOW ASTROLOGY AFFECTS YOU

Jackie Onassis, of course, is not unique in the inaccuracy of her horoscope. Everyone born has a completely personal horoscope that is totally different from that of any other person in the entire world. To illustrate how astrology affects everyone, I'd like to share with you some of the research findings of the Institute for Applied Astrology.

"Hair: the most successful musical of all times had a full time astrologer. He advised them on every single step. He told them when and where to open. He got top credit right along with the writers and the director!"

In 1908, an astrologer, John Hazelrig, said that every 20 years, when the Transits of Saturn and Jupiter are close (come together), the President who took office at that year would die in office. Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley, Harding, Franklin Roosevelt and Kennedy did exactly that!

Carol Richter is astrologer to Hollywood. Hundreds of the famous have used his Transit astrology. People like Martin Dietrich, Gloria Swanson, Ronald Colman, Tyrone Power and Danny Kaye. Carol Richter became an astrologer because Evangeline Adams, who was astrologer to Kings, Queens and financiers, told him astrology was his vocation according to the stars.

Hitler was conquering Europe

JACKIE'S ASTRO-PORTRAIT

Jackie is probably the world's best known woman, but like the rest of us, she was born into this world at a time, and in a place over which she had no control. However, as shown in her horoscope cast by our astrological research group, fate had great plans for her future. She really got to know Jackie and her fabulous life you've got to read about what her horoscope says.

as long as he followed his Horoscope as prepared by Karl E. Kraft. But when Kraft's charts told Hitler it was not the time to turn East to Russia, Hitler fired him. That was the beginning of the end for Hitler. (See Wm. Shiras "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich.")

Countless brilliant scientists, writers and geniuses through the ages have believed in Astrology. Great men like St. Thomas Aquinas, Sir Roger Bacon (father of modern science), Shakespeare, Sir Isaac Newton, Carl Jung, Einstein, and J. P. Morgan have all openly agreed that astrology works!

MODERN SCIENCE PROVES ASTROLOGY WORKS

Recently in France, a famous scientist named Michel Gauquelin decided to prove that Astrology was a fake. So he attacked it scientifically! In France the time of birth is on every birth certificate, so he was able to hire Astrologers to cast the horoscopes of 576 famous teachers of medicine. He was astonished to discover that most of them had Mars and Saturn heavily influencing their character! These are the planets that show a natural talent for healing. He refused to believe his own evidence, so he checked the horoscopes of famous lawyers, soldiers, politicians and artists. He found that in every single instance the people that were successful, were "doing what comes naturally," as shown on their astrological charts. Unfortunately the opposite also holds true. The people who fall at their work and in their lives are the ones who do the wrong things. They are square pegs in round holes: they are plumbers who should be doctors, mechanics who should be engineers, etc.

Limited Research Program Invitation

WHY WE GIVE YOU THE WORLD'S ONLY TOTAL HOROSCOPE FOR JUST OUR COPYING COST

by Lois Rodden, A.F.A.—P.A.I., Chief Astrologer

There are a lot of computer horoscopes on the market — and most of them are okay as far as they go. But that's just it — they really don't go far enough! Only the Institute for Applied Astrology can prepare your TOTAL HOROSCOPE for you because only we have "transits" stored in our giant computer.

Where the sun, moon and planets happen to be at the time of your birth is what makes up your Natal (birthdate) Horoscope. But that's only the beginning of a TOTAL HOROSCOPE, yet that's all you get from other computer horoscope companies. You see, the sun, moon and planets keep right on moving. They are in Transit. And day after day they keep forming new angles with your birth chart. These Transits show every single important period of your life! And no horoscope that does not include these transits is a TOTAL HOROSCOPE.

Now for a limited time only, if you will help us with our research program, you can get your own personal TOTAL HOROSCOPE for just a duplicating charge. Since your TOTAL HOROSCOPE must be constructed anyway for our research you may have an exact duplicate copy for only $3.00 to cover our printing cost, plus just 55¢ for postage and handling. The preparation, the casting, and the professional analysis are provided without charge! To join our research program and get your TOTAL HOROSCOPE, here's all you do. Write down your time and place of birth, as exact as possible, on a piece of paper and send it to me. I'll cast and analyze your

HERE'S HOW ASTROLOGY WORKS

Most people have heard about the rich, famous and successful people who use astrology, practically all the time. But they still think that astrology is the "fortune cookie" horoscope they read in their daily paper, or the Natal horoscope that they can buy for a few dollars. But this is not true, for astrology is an exact and demanding science.

To prepare a true, in-depth, individual personal horoscope for you, an astrologer must first make a chart showing the sun, the moon, and all eight planets as they were at the time and place of your birth. This is what we call our computer horoscope, complete, deep. But that is only half the job.

Next, the astrologer must relate "Transits" to your basic chart. Transits are the changes in the positions of the sun, moon, and planets as they move away from the position they were in at your birth. And only the Institute for Applied Astrology does that!

When this Total Chart is finished it is completely personal, completely different, and completely about you! And the written evaluation is what astrologers call your Total Horoscope. Natal astrology alone is like reading a good book about big game hunting and then going to darkest Africa on your own. "Total" astrology is like having a top professional hunter to help guide you through the jungle. The special knowledge contained in this horoscope can change your life in many wonderful ways. We all know, for example, that while none of us are good at everything, each of us are good at something. Your horoscope will tell you what you're good at. And, armed with that knowledge, you can forge ahead and be as easy and happy while you do it.

Your horoscope delves deeply into your personality, revealing your hidden talents. It will tell you about the areas where you have ability but may have been uncertain and afraid to try — things like writing or acting, art, sex, leadership, public relations, advertising, athletics, etc.

Think of it this way: you only have one life to live, so why not get everything from it that you can? Why waste your time chasing down blind alleys that can easily be avoided? You have a real duty to yourself and to your loved ones to make the most of each precious moment. And your Total Horoscope can give you the edge you need to see your opportunities and take advantage of them as they come.

For a limited time only, while the internationally known Institute for Applied Astrology is carrying on its extensive research program, you can get your Total Horoscope for just a duplicating cost. The casting and analysis are done FREE! The article below tells you how to get your Horoscope. For the sake of your own personal happiness — don't pass up this unique opportunity. It's the kind of new chance for success that comes along only once in each person's life.

and how to keep these relationships strong and satisfying.

1 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE not only give you practical vocational and career advice, but will show you the best time to use that information for maximum effect.

2 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will be loaded with beneficial advice on money matters. It will tell you when to take chances and when to be careful. This is exceptionally important if you have a tendency to take risks.

3 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE covers all matters relating to your body and your health. It tells you the things to do and the things to avoid in order to enjoy the maximum in good health, normal weight and high energy.

4 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE gives you positive information. When it tells you of possible bad periods it also tells you how to avoid or overcome them.

The Institute needs your horoscope to help complete our huge research program looking into the practical applications of astrology (Applied Astrology). This research program has been going on for some time and has been presented in COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE, FAMILY WEEKLY MAGAZINE, THE LOS ANGELES TIMES HOME MAGAZINE, THE NATIONAL ENQUIRER, and other papers and periodicals. Right now, for a limited time only, if you help us by providing your birth data, you can benefit by becoming eligible to get horoscopes for yourself and even your family and friends.

Tiant's long, Fu Manchu moustache, his "corkscrew" windup and his perpetual-motion antics on the pitching mound make him one of baseball's most colorful performers. He always works with a huge wad of tobacco in his mouth. "I don't chew to relieve the pressure, like the old-timers did," he says. "I chew to keep from drinking water. I found it's not good for me to drink a lot of water the day I pitch."

Good pitchers, like wine, can improve with age. In 1971 Luis Tiant Jr. was given his unconditional release by two major-league clubs on the grounds that he was over the hill and all washed up. Yet he went on to post two 20-game winning seasons for the Boston Red Sox and wound up last year's spectacular season with two great wins over the Cincinnati Reds in the World Series. . . . Luis, who's 35, is the son of Luis Tiant Sr., a first-rate pitcher in his day for a team called the New York Cubans. He pitched in such ball parks as Yankee Stadium and the old Ebbets Field. Luis Sr. advised his son not to take up baseball as a career, but Luis Jr. didn't listen and in 1959 went with the Mexico City Tigers. Later he joined the Cleveland Indians and had his biggest year in 1968 with 21 victories and the best earned-run average in the American League. Then he developed arm trouble, was traded to Minnesota and was cut in the spring of 1971. He got his second cut when he flunked a tryout with the Atlanta Braves. . . . "I had no place to go. I wanted to stay in baseball, but I didn't know what to do," Tiant recalls. A friend who was pitching for Louisville, a Red Sox farm team, convinced Louisville manager Darrell Johnson to give Luis a chance. Tiant did well enough to get promoted back to the majors and Johnson joined him later as manager of the Red Sox. . . . Because of the "cold war" between the U.S. and Cuba, Luis and his parents were separated for 14 years. Learn Nature's Weight Loss Secret Of Glandular Control

How to Command your Pituitary Gland to order up to 756 times its own weight in fat to leave your body every single day

By Joan Woodward

Use your head! Millions of overweight Americans could have slimmed down a long time ago by doing just that. For years, people with weight problems have desperately searched for ways to shed pounds. Ironically, even as they frantically searched, they were carrying the perfect weight loss secret right in their own head — their Pituitary Gland.

Allow me to explain. By learning Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you can command your pituitary gland (nature's built-in fat evacuator) to order up to 1 pound of fat to leave your body every day. You'll continue to shed pounds until you reach your ideal weight — and, then stay fat free forever. This weight loss secret works for everyone, whether 5 lbs. or 105 lbs. overweight.

But, best of all, you lose weight while eating the foods you love. In fact, you must eat to lose weight. That's the key to this weight loss secret.

As a reporter for the newsletter "Total Fitness Today", my job is to check out weight loss plans being developed across the country. Since I machine to a fat evacuating system. Your Pituitary Gland will work safely and naturally to evacuate fat 24 hours a day — even while you sleep. Q. If these "trigger" foods are in everyone's diet, why isn't my Pituitary Gland evacuating fat? A. Unfortunately, even if your diet consists of 95% "trigger" foods, it only takes 5% "blocker" foods to prevent your Pituitary Gland from evacuating fat.

Q. How can I trigger my Pituitary Gland?

A. Not by willpower, not by concentration, not with exercise, but by eating. Only by eating "trigger" foods and avoiding "blocker" foods can you trigger your Pituitary Gland to evacuate fat. Remember, the Weight Loss Secret is a nutrition plan, not a diet.

Q. What are these "trigger" foods, and how much can I eat?

A. These "trigger" foods are the every day foods you love: juicy sirloin steaks, hearty helpings of beef stroganoff, spicy ham, double cheeseburgers, meatloaf, barbecued chicken, omelets, vegetables, like broccoli smothered with hollandaise sauce, cantaloupes, fruit cocktails — even desserts like strawberries with whipped cream, pumpkin to illness. Second, with most methods, the results, if any, come too slowly. So most people lose hope and quit.

Q. You're right about why they fail. I know, because I've tried them all, without success. But, why does glandular control work? A. Again, two reasons. As I said, people are overweight because they love to eat. With Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you must eat to lose weight. Therefore, overweight people will use it. It's as simple as that. The Weight Loss Secret has none of the drawbacks of other methods. There's no starvation, no willpower, no boring exercises, no health ruining diet pills, no weird fat dieting. It doesn't leave you weak and nervous. In fact, it makes you feel healthier and more vibrant than before.

Q. You said there are two reasons why this secret works. What's the second reason?

A. Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control always succeeds, because it gives fast, steady and permanent results. You start losing weight the first day. You can lose up to 14 lbs. in two weeks. With these kind of results, rather than losing hope and quitting, you will be encouraged to continue and lose even more. You will reach your ideal weight and be fat free forever.

Robert Ridgfield, discoverer of Nature's Weight Loss Secret, points to the gland that will make you thin. Your pituitary gland, weighing a mere 1/60th of an ounce, can command up to one pound of fat (756 x 1/60th of an ounce = one lb.) to leave your body every single day. Since all of us have a pituitary gland, everyone—5 lbs. or 105 lbs. overweight can learn nature's weight loss secret of glandular control. The article below will explain how you can reap the benefits of this amazing scientific breakthrough by losing as much as 14 lbs. in two weeks.

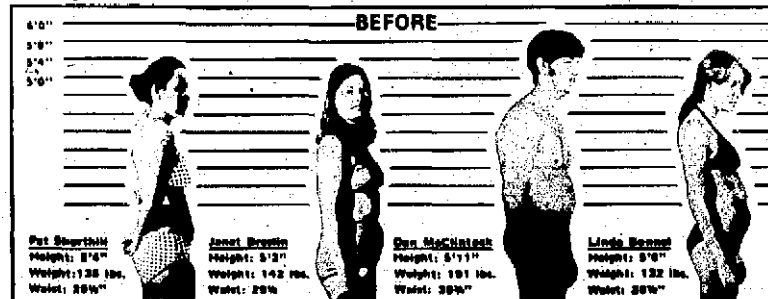

WHAT WILL THE SECRET DO FOR YOU?

By learning Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you will:

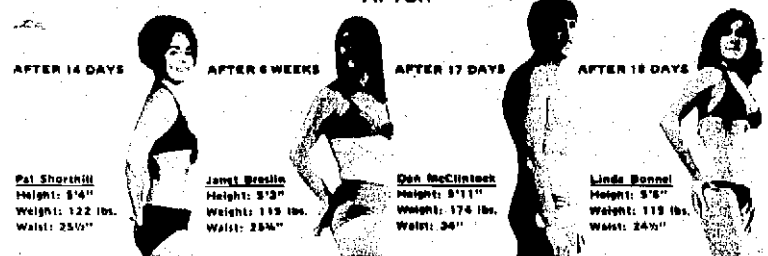

- Lose all the weight you want, as much as a pound a day, while eating the food you love.
- Lose inches off your waist, hips, thighs, and banish ugly cellulite bumps.
- Never go hungry.
- Increase your energy and vitality.
- Look and feel younger.
- End your up-down roller coaster weight cycle by staying fat free forever.

After I lost my weight, my boss, Timothy Voros, the Chairman of the Board of Consumer Publishing, decided to try the secret. He lost 22 lbs. in 22 days. He was so impressed, he grabbed up the exclusive world wide rights to this revolutionary new weight loss secret. He then commissioned Mr. Ridgfield to author the text

"You can lose all the weight you want, quickly, and keep it off permanently while eating the foods you love."

have a weight problem, I take a special interest in these assignments. When I heard about this revolutionary new weight loss secret, I decided to investigate.

I set up an appointment with Robert Ridgfield, the discoverer of Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control. I started with tough questions.

HOW DOES THE SECRET WORK?

Q. How does the secret work? A. The secret works by making food your ally instead of your enemy. There are two types of food in everyone's daily diet — "triggers" and "blockers". By eating "trigger" foods, you trigger or turn on your Pituitary Gland (nature's built-in fat evacuator). Once triggered, your Pituitary Gland secretes a fat evacuating chemical fluid. This fluid is transported throughout your body and transforms your body from a fat producing machine to a fat evacuating system. Your Pituitary Gland will work safely and naturally to evacuate fat 24 hours a day — even while you sleep. Q. If these "trigger" foods are in everyone's diet, why isn't my Pituitary Gland evacuating fat? A. Unfortunately, even if your diet consists of 95% "trigger" foods, it only takes 5% "blocker" foods to prevent your Pituitary Gland from evacuating fat.

WHY DOES THE SECRET WORK?

Q. You've told me how it works, but all weight loss methods look good on paper — they just don't work in real life. Why is this one different? A. In order to understand why the secret works, you must first know why other methods fail. They fail for two reasons. First, other methods work against human nature, and therefore are doomed to failure from the start. People with weight problems obviously love to eat. Starvation is sheer torture. No one in their right mind is going to torture themselves for very long. Strenuous exercise is difficult, worklike, and boring. Diet pills leave you weak, nervous and prone to illness. Second, with most methods, the results, if any, come too slowly. So most people lose hope and quit. Q. You're right about why they fail. I know, because I've tried them all, without success. But, why does glandular control work? A. Again, two reasons. As I said, people are overweight because they love to eat. With Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you must eat to lose weight. Therefore, overweight people will use it. It's as simple as that. The Weight Loss Secret has none of the drawbacks of other methods. There's no starvation, no willpower, no boring exercises, no health ruining diet pills, no weird fat dieting. It doesn't leave you weak and nervous. In fact, it makes you feel healthier and more vibrant than before.

Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control always succeeds, because it gives fast, steady and permanent results. You start losing weight the first day. You can lose up to 14 lbs. in two weeks. With these kind of results, rather than losing hope and quitting, you will be encouraged to continue and lose even more. You will reach your ideal weight and be fat free forever.

Q. One last question. You call the Pituitary Gland nature's built-in fat evacuator. Why is that? A. The Pituitary Gland was evolved by nature as a survival mechanism to keep man slim and fit. Just as your heart pumps blood, your lungs breathe the air, your Pituitary Gland evacuates fat. Because it's natural, it's 100% safe.

At the end of our conversation, I asked Mr. Ridgfield if I could talk with people who had successfully used the secret. He did better. He introduced me to four people who were going to start the weight loss secret the following Monday, and asked me if I would like to join them.

I took a before picture of Pat, Janet, Dan and Linda. I then followed their progress every day and had an after picture taken. As you can see from the photos, their results were amazing. But, they weren't the only ones to achieve results.

I lost 4 inches off my waist, 3 inches off my thighs and 14 lbs. in 14 days. My whole life has changed. My clothes fit great, I look and feel younger, I've found new self-confidence. But best of all, my love life has improved. The Weight Loss Secret can do the same thing for you.

LORETTA LYNN

"You get used to sadness..."

Success has been a lonely business for country-western star Loretta Lynn: "As a country singer I write songs about marriage and family and the way normal folks live. But mostly I'm living in motel rooms and traveling on my special bus with my private bedroom in the back. I don't even open the shades in my bus any more. I've seen every highway in the United States by now, and they all look alike to me. I don't even feel comfortable in my own house any more. I get home for a day or two, and by the time I unpack my bags and see what's changed since I was last there, it's time to get moving again. It's kind of lonely on the road, and playing those road

This 80-foot statue (left) of the patron saint Gomateshwara, attracts worshippers of the Indian religion Jain, who kneel at its feet (right).

India's giant statue—and its rituals: Every 12th year for the last 1,000, Jain worshippers have gathered to pay tribute to their prophet of love and tolerance, Gomateshwara. But this year marked a special celebration as a helicopter flew overhead and dropped millions of rose petals on the statue to symbolize a resurgence of devotion to this once almost extinct religion. Carved from a solid granite boulder, the naked statue of the Jain saint is a formidable sight. It can only be approached by walking up 500 steps which are cut into the hillside of a southwestern village in India. Along with the shower of roses, the statue got its traditional bath of scented water, milk and precious oils while Jain chants were murmured.

shows is a weird experience. One minute I'm out on the stage, usually dressed in long-sleeved, floor-length gowns, with my hair hanging down to my shoulders, smiling at my fans. There's such a feeling of love between me and those people. I know it shows on my face. Being on stage is the best part of my career. I just say whatever comes into my head, and I joke with my band, and we all have a good time. It's the only time when I really feel grown-up and in control of things. But I'm not really as happy as I act on stage. I've known a lot of sad times. I've had chest surgery and blood poisoning, and sometimes I pass out on stage from migraine headaches. I've had a bunch of death threats that we managed to keep secret for awhile. But you get used to sadness, growing up in the mountains the way I did. Being alone so much I often get to thinking about my younger days. It's funny how most of the things I remember are about being poor. I can remember waiting to get new shoes in the fall, walking across the first frost in my bare feet, sometimes sharing shoes until my feet got bunions on them. I could survive if we got poor again. In some ways, that was the best part of my life, learning to survive." From "Loretta Lynn: Coal Miner's Daughter," by Loretta Lynn with George Vecsey (Regnery, $7.95).

The Save-Your-Dog Diet: Nutritional deficiencies and weight problems which can lead to serious heart, kidney and intestinal disorders plague millions of Americans and at least 2 million of the nation's 32 million dogs. Some dogs, like some people, can't tolerate a normal diet, and many dogs are victims of too much "good food," says an expert from "Animal Nutrition News." If your pet suffers from one of these disorders, the cure may lie in prescription dog food. But if your pet is healthy, keep him that way by not pampering him with an all-meat diet; it lacks the necessary minerals. Avoid those "reward" foods since they tend to unbalance diets and lead to obesity. (This advice applies to all creatures, both canine and human!)

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

HEAD TO TOW

A parking sign that gives me fits
And nearly turns me gray
Is one proclaiming "Violators
Will Be Towed Away."

I have a vision of a rope
Around the driver's neck.
A truck that tows is just ahead
And pulls and pulls like heck.

Or else the rope is round his heels
And he is dragged, unwilling.
Crowds gather on the walks to watch

A sight that's sad but thrilling.

You say that it's the car that's towed
And not the driver? Yes,
You may be right, but I'll be very Careful nonetheless.

After a traffic accident, a man rushed from the sidewalk and leaned over the victim. He was roughly pushed aside by a young man who announced, "Stand back, please. I've had a course in first aid."

The first man looked on for a few minutes. Then he tapped the young man on the shoulder and said, "When you get to the part about calling a doctor, I'm already here." —Gene Yassanik
